Burkharts Experience World Plowing Match

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands— Some plowmen in the world competition here last month defeated 50 other plowmen to represent their country in international competition. Some were so intense, third place was not good enough. Some even felt the need to try to cover mistakes when the judges were not looking.

But Frank Burkhart, Lancaster, represented the United States in the world plowing competition with the attitude that going into world competition would be tough and the experience was worth more than winning the gold revolving trophy replica of an old horse-drawn plow.

"I thought from the beginning that I could not be a winner in world competition," Burkhart said. "First of all, I won the state and nation competition last year with a four-bottom plow. The standard international two-bottom plow contest was not a familiar thing with me. In addition, many countries sponsor their participants like they do their soccer teams. So their attitudes are 'I gotta win at any price.' For them it is a very prestegous event."

Burkhart and his wife, and son Glenn and daughter-in-law, left New York on September 10 to get their Case IH tractor and Kverneland plow ready to go on the official 65' x 300' plot in loose soil that

Boys Have Fun With Puppies

These boys usually feed calves and help with the chores around the Ranckstead Registered Holstein farm located south of Ronks on Paradise Lane. But last week, Trevor, 5, and Tyler, 4, got together with these cuddly six-week-old Miniature Schnauzer puppies to have a little fun with the photographer. The boys are sons of Parke and Sheila Ranck, Jr. and represent the 10th generation of Rancks to live on their farm. The Ranckstead prefix started by the boys' great grandfather, Harry Ranck, Sr., has been well known in DHIA circles for many years. Photo by Everett Newswanger, Managing Editor.

Starbuck Ada Named All American Supreme Champion

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — A 3-year-old Holstein was named the supreme dairy cow of the 1990 Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show Sept. 27 in the large arena of the state Farm Show Complex.

The week-long dairy show is the largest east of the Mississippi River with more than 2,500 animals representing six major dairy cattle breeds entered.

Exhibitors traveled from a number of states and Canada with their animals to show them at the Harrisburg event. For dairy cattle breeders, it is one of the most important events of the year.

C Aitkenbrae Starbuck Ada, a senior 3-year-old Holstein owned by Gay Ridge Farm and Kingstead Holsteins, Maryland, was selected by dairy judges to be the best of the grand champions in the final event of the week-long dairy show.

Starbuck Ada had stiff competition. The Maryland Holstein is rated and Excellent 93 and has posted a 2-year, 1-month production record of 25,000 pounds of milk at 3.6 percent butterfat during a 362-day lactation.

The selection of supreme cattle was done with fanfare — each animal entering the darkened ring and its leadsman was illuminated with a strong white spotlight.

And and as each cow was walked around the large arena, Obie Snider, president of the show sponsor Pennsylvania Dairy and Allied Industries Association, read out to the audience the production levels, the breed index, and other pertinent information.

Pigs, Humans Want Cleaner Air In Confinement Houses

LOU ANN GOOD

MASTERSONVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — Raising 1,000 feeder pigs is a smelly operation — even for a pig.

Inhaling the dust and gases produced from the operation causes respiratory problems in humans and animals.

Raymond Martin was concerned when he noticed problems with the swine housed in an open-face building on his Mastersonville farm.

Designed for natural flow ventilation without a fan, the system worked fine for several months out of the year, but extremely hot or cold weather played havoc with the swine mannerisms.

The large temperature fluctuations, high relative humidity, high ammonia gas levels, and excessive changed the manure patterns of his hogs. Coughing, sneezing, piling, uneveness in size, and poor dunging habits are signs of environmental problems. Mortality was high.

Martin knew he had to change his improperly designed confinement area to maintain a more optimal environment.

He sought the advice of Dr. Dan Meyer, Penn State extension agricultural engineer.

"I didn't want to spend a lot of money," Martin said, "but I believe in animal welfare and I wanted to make my pigs as comfortable as possible."

Meyer was the person to contact.

New York & Philadelphia Frozen Egg Report

Tuesday, October 2, 1990

Prices continued to trend higher on yolk items, unchanged on the balance. Underlying sentiment was cautious. Trading activity was mixed as higher prices had sellers adopting a wait and see position. Most plants ran full schedules and had sufficient floor stocks to satisfy most current dealer needs.

Trucklot buying interest was mixed and selective. Skinned boneless breasts were fully adequate at unchanged prices for immediate delivery; however, interest was fairly active for the next 2 weeks and asking prices and spot commitments were developing at higher levels. Whole breasts remained adequate but offerings were lighter and sellers held product with confidence. Legs were well balance while leg quarters ranged barely adequate to fully adequate. Drums and thighs were adequate. Wings were readily available and slow in clearing at current price levels.

OPINION

Look At The Trees

Days that are clear and sunny and the nights that are cool and crisp — provide a spectacular show of autumn colors, making this season of the year delightful.

Scientists do not yet fully understand all of the complicated actions — and even more complicated interactions — involving pignments, sunlight, moisture, chemicals, hormones, temperature, length of daylight, and so on that make for a perfect autumn display. As research probes deeper and deeper into the basics of life, more and more answers will be forthcoming.

According to Robert Leiby and David Sunbar in the Lehigh Co. agents office, the leaves of summer are characteristically green because of the presence of a group of pigments known as chlorophylls. When the chlorophylls are abundant in the leaf's cells, as they are during the growing season, their green color dominates and masks the colors of any other pigment that may be present in the leaf.

As autumn approaches, certain influences both inside and outside the plant cause the chlorophylls to be replaced at a slower rate than they are being broken down. During this period, with the total supply of chlorophylls gradually dwindling, the "masking effect" slowly fades away. Then the other pigments that have been present (along with the chlorophylls) in the cells during the growing season begin to show through. These are the carotenoids; they give leaves the colorations of yellow, brown, orange, and the many hues in between.

The carotenoids occur, along with the chlorophyll pigments, in tiny structures within the cells of leaves. Sometimes they are in such abundance in the leaf that they give a plant a yellow-green color, even during the summer. But usually we become aware of their presence for the first time in autumn, when the leaves begin to lose their chlorophyll. Carotenoids are common in many living things, giving characteristic color to carrots, corn, canaries and daffodils, as well as egg yolks, rutabagas, buttercups and bananas.

Carotenoids' brilliant yellow and orange tint the leaves of hardwood species such as hickories, ash, maple, yellow-poplar, aspen, birch, black cherry, sycamore, cottonwood, sassafras, and alder.

The reds, the purples, and their blended combinations that decorate autumn foliage come from another group of cell pigments called anthocyanins. These pigments are not present in the leaf throughout the growing season as are the carotenoids. The anthocyanins develop in late summer within the cells of the leaf, and this development is the result of complex interactions of many influences both inside and outside the plant. Their formation depends on the breakdown of sugars in the presence of bright light as the level of phosphate in the leaf is reduced.

During the summer growing season, phosphate is at a high level. It has a vital role in the breakdown of the sugars manufactured by chlorophyll.

But in the fall, phosphate, along with the other chemicals and nutrients, moves out of the leaf into the stem of the plant. When this happens, the sugar-breakdown process changes, leading to the production of anthocyanin pigments. The brighter the light during this period, the greater the production of anthocyanins and the more brilliant the resulting color display that we see. When the days of autumn are bright and cool, and the nights are chilly but not freezing, the brightest colors usually develop.

In our autumn forests, anthocyanins show up vividly in the maples, oaks, sourwood, sweetgum, dogwood, tupelo, blackgum and persimmon. These same pigments often combine with the carotenoids' colors to give us the deeper orange, fiery reds, and bronzes typical of many hardwood species. So take a little time in the next few weeks to look at the trees. The beauty of nature is an ever present sedative for the soul in those who are sensitive to the environment around them.

NOW IS THE TIME

By Jay Irwin

To Be Careful Around Manure Pits

This is the time of year that many liquid manure pits will be cleaned out and spread on the land; the crops have been harvested and the ground is open enough to absorb much of the liquid; this is necessary rather than to apply it on frozen ground. After application, a pass over the field with a disc will reduce the possibility of odors a great deal.

When these pits are emptied there is a danger of poisonous gases being present. If the mixture is agitated before being moved then good ventilation must be provided above the pit. Also, never go into a pit without a gas mask or some type of respirator. Keep in mind that these gases can be explosive as well as poisonous to man and animals. Special care is needed in and around manure pits.

To Salute 4-H

National 4-H Week runs from October 7 through October 13. I wish to congratulate the over 4,000 members and nearly 600 volunteer adult leaders, and the professional youth workers for their accomplishments and service to Lancaster County.

Through 4-H projects and activities, youth from all social and economic backgrounds, both rural and urban, demonstrate that they can make a difference in food production, conservation of our natural resources, improve economic understanding, and in the formulation of future career decisions.

As a result of the fine exchange programs, 4-H also contributes to international understanding and increased world food production. Four-H provides an important pathway to the future for many youth through their motto "To Make The Best Better."

To Beware Of Grazing Hazards

Dairy farmers who are grazing their milking herds in woodlots, or in pastures with oak trees, should be on the alert for fallen acorns. Our Veterinary Science people tell us that acorns are somewhat toxic to cattle and will dry up most cows for the rest of their lactation. We are aware of many oak trees in pastures, and in most years there will be a pretty good acorn crop.

If the cows start eating these acorns, then the milk flow will be reduced drastically. Either cows should be removed from the area, or someone should pick up the acorns before the cows are turned each day.

To Apply Lime

First, soil test, then apply the needed lime before the soil freezes. That 1-2 order of events should have a high priority now as we finish one growing season and plan ahead for the next.

In order to do its job of correcting soil acidity, lime must come in contact with the soil particles, not just those on the soil surface. Weather changes during the next 6 months will provide just the right conditions to do lots of mixing of lime and soil within the topsoil layer. Freezing and thawing, rain, snow and ice, help to move the lime downward.

During the fall season fields are firm and usually dry enough to allow lime spreading trucks to move about more easily.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

GOD CALLING!

October 7, 1990

Background Scripture:
2 Kings 9: 1-13.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 20.

This story is more than it seems. It appears to be the story of God calling Jehu. But it is really much more than that. It is also about God's call to everyone — and particularly to you.

The first person we encounter is Elisha the prophet. He had been called by God to become the successor to the prophet Elijah, who symbolically had passed on his mantle to him. The message from God came first of all through Elisha. He was called to transmit that message and he did.

The next person in the story is listed simply as "one of the sons of the prophets" and identified only as "a young man." He is given a vitally important and perhaps even dangerous mission. (We're not sure why Elisha warned him to deliver his message and "then open the door and flee," but he was probably fearful that either some would reject this command from God.) Although he fulfills his mission and is successful, still, his name is not recorded for us. And that's the way it is very often: it is the mission God gives us, not personal recognition, that is truly important. How many missions for God have been performed in this world by people whose names have been lost to posterity!

RELUCTANT JEHU

The third person in this story is Jehu, the army commander. The writer is careful to indicate that Jehu was a hesitant or even reluctant candidate. When, at first, the young prophet arrives in Ramoth-gilead and approaches the army commanders, Jehu asks him: "Which of us all? (9:5). And later, when the prophet has annointed him king and left, when the others ask him what the prophet wanted, Jehu stalls a bit: "You know the fellow and his talk" (9:11). It is only when they insist that he reveals to them that the prophet has annointed him King of Israel. Jehu was satisfied to be an army commander; he wasn't looking for a bigger job, as often neither are we.

That is not the end of God's calling in this story; "Then in haste every man of them took his garment, and put it under him on the bare steps, and they blew his trumpet and proclaimed, 'Jehu is king'." If Elisha, the anonymous prophet and Jehu had all answered God's call and the people had not accepted their new king, God's plan would have been dealt a setback. Sometimes his call to us is to follow the leadership he sends us.

So each of us must stay alert so that we too can know when it is God calling us!

U.S. FARMERS · Feed the World ·

Five good reasons to deworm your whole herd with Rumatel®

1. Worms are a whole-herd problem. They threaten the health and productivity of your young stock and milking herd alike.

2. Rumatel makes whole-herd deworming easy. You can effectively deworm calves, heifers, dry cows, lactating cows and bulls in one simple treatment (Baymix® requires six).

3. No milk discard. TBZ® forces you to dump eight milkings ($2,800 worth in a 100-cow herd averaging 50 lbs. of milk per cow per day, and at a milk price of $14/cwt.). With Rumatel you don't waste a drop.

4. No milk residues. Ivomec® may only legally be administered to males and pre-breeding weight heifers, while Rumatel may be safely fed to lactating cows at any time without risking milk residues!

5. Rumatel is extremely palatable. Unlike other in-feed dewormers, Rumatel doesn't make animals back off feed.

There's just no good reason to settle for incomplete or inconvenient deworming. Ask your feed supplier for Rumatel today.

Stops Worms, Not Milk, In One Day.

The cream of the crop of the six breeds of dairy cattle involved in the week-long 1990 Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show stand for selection of a supreme champion. Norman Hill holds the banner and halter of the supreme champion, C Aitkenbrae Starbuck Ada. Hill is herdsman for Ada's co-owners, the King family and Wilcom family. From the left, the grand champion Ayrshire is shown by Ian MacKechnie; the Brown Swiss is shown by Wayne Sliker; the Guernsey is shown by John Ayars. On the right side of the supreme champ is the grand champion Milking Shorthorn shown by Greg Clark; and Wayne Stiles with the grand champion Jersey.

All American Supreme Champion

was classified as a Very Good 83 . . . the Milking Shorthorn, a 3-year-old, was reported to be an Excellent 90 . . .

The judges took their time in selecting the top animal and many spectators did their own speculating.

The udder of Ada, with its strong suspensory ligament, high rear attatchment, strong front attatchment and teat placement and her near-perfect rear legs seemed to edge her over the others.

However, no one in the audience whispered any second-guessing on the judges' decision.

Holstein Show Changes

Ada had just been named grand champion Holstein during the one-day Eastern National Holstein Show before being crowned supreme.

It was a first for the Holstein show, which had been stretched out over two days in previous years, but was performed in one day in order to allow exhibitors of other breeds to show their grand champions in the compeition for the supreme contest and still have Friday to start heading home.

In addition to Ada being awarded the title of grand champion, several other cows received recognition in the Holstein competition.

Lockway Holly Sexation, a 6-year-old owned by Richard Locke of Lockway Farm in Mercersburg, was named reserve grand champion and the best senior cow bred and owned by an exhibitor.

In addition to the awards lauded upon Richard Locke's cow, he took home a coveted premier breeder award and showed the best dam and daughter, best produce of dam and best three senior cows.

Showing the top junior aged Holstein was Pamtom Farm, Hudson Falls, N.Y. The senior yearling heifer C Belfast Astro Stacey, was named junior champion.

Maryland Jersey Is Grand

In the Jersey show of the All American, called the Mid-Atlantic Regional Jersey Show, an aged cow shown by Spring Valley Farm, of Westminister, Md., was crowned grand champion of the small brown breed.

A Virginia farm's stock however took home numerous other top class titles. Waverly Farm of Clearbrook was awarded both the premier breeder and premier exhibitor banners of the show.

WF Frankie Prell, the Virginia Farm's 3-year-old entry was named reserve grand and the farm also took home best dairy herd, best three females, and several other top class awards.

Taking the junior champion award in the Jersey breed was shown by Hart Have Farm, New Milford.

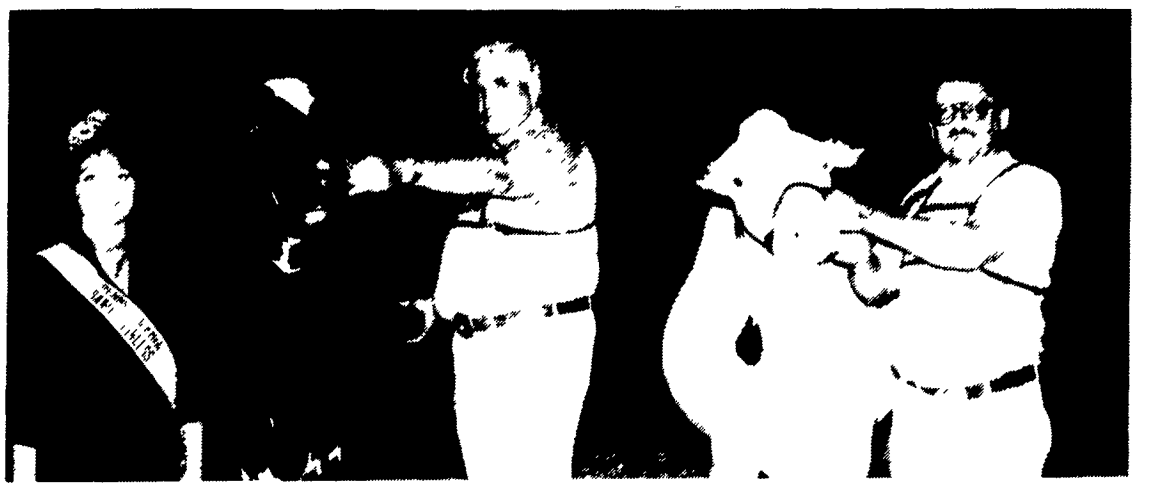
The Holstein portion of the Pennsylvania All American Dairy Show ends with the grand and reserve grand cows being chosen. Standing with the animals, are from the left, Mary Beth Landis, first alternate state dairy princess; Niles Wendorf, assistant judge; Richard Locke and his reserve grand champion Lockway Holly Sexation; and the grand champion with herdsman Norman Hill; and co-owners Mary King and Mary Wilcom. Presenting a plaque is judge James Patterson.



From the left, Kristin Metzker, state dairy princess, stands the junior champion female Holstein shown by Pete Hefferine and the reserve junior champion Holstein show.. by Jim Hoskens.

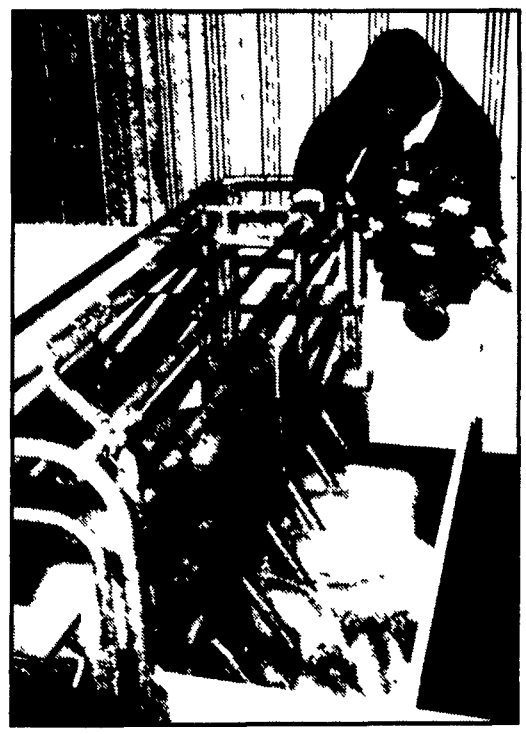
BANKERS Love BABCOCK'S GREAT BEGINNINGS

Celebrate Mother's Day Every Day When You Farrow Babcock Sows!



Some producers have the notion that you can't have great carcass quality and exceptional mothering ability in the same herd.

Babcock, that "little ol' genetics company," proved them wrong. We had the best all around carcass quality of any at the 1990 Pork Challenge.

Our market hog's great performance begins with the Babcock sow's superior mothering ability. For more than 20 years, Babcock has, without exception, culled gilts that have not come into heat at an early age, farrowed without help, been good milking mothers, and recycled easily. This intense genetic selection pressure results in sows that even on their first litter, can be loaded up with pigs and wean everything they are given. But watch out — given the chance she'll produce so many pigs, you'll have to invest in more finishing facilities just to keep up.

So when you need sows that can do everything but open the farrowing house door — buy Babcock. For more information, call 1-800-343-4940.

All-forged Hook-Link® chain... available on Super 300 and Super 500 barn cleaners

Extra thick steel at all wear points

IMPORTANT: Look for the "parting line" on any barn cleaner chain you buy. It shows where excess metal has been trimmed off. It is your assurance that the link was totally forged, not just punched out of a flat steel bar with grain flow in one direction only.
You want a totally-forged link because forging changes the grain on the steel, causing it to curve in unbroken flow lines around the contours of the link, giving the link greater strength to serve you longer.

Junior Heifer Calf Tops Eastern National Holstein Sale

Sales are fast and furious at the Eastern National Holstein Sale, as some of the best young female Holsteins and embryos are put on the auction block. The sale totalled $189,300.

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Four Blackstar-sired calves topped sales at the 1990 Eastern National Holstein Sale, held Sept. 26 at the state Farm Show complex.

But the bloodline of Blackstar wasn't the only item in high demand. At least two dam bloodlines continued to attract strong interest from Holstein breeders.

The top Blackstar offering was a junior heifer calf consigned by Plushanski Farms in Kutztown, which brought $21,000. It was the second year in a row that an offspring from Plushanski Farms' cow, Plushanski Mark Fife-ET (VG87), brought the highest price of the annual sale.

Last year, a 2-month-old calf from Fife brought $35,000. That calf was sired by Art Acres Bell Pontiac.

And while the high single price

Embryo Sale Tops Somerset Fall Classic

GAY N. BROWNLEE
Somerset Co. Correspondent

MEYERSDALE (Somerset Co.) — The Somerset County Holstein Club Fall Classic, held recently at the fairgrounds in Meyersdale, saw the choice of embryos bring top sale dollar.

Selling for a hefty $3,400, the embryo is from Hillmont Enhancer Peach, who is owned by Peach Partners of Berlin.

It was purchased by Lewis and Barbara Berkley of Berlin. The Berkley's said they bought the embryo because of the cow family behind it. Lewis said Peach is a high protein producing cow and that many dairymen are seeking higher protein in their milk for today's milk markets.

With a 60-head Holstein herd to milk, Berkley says he has two men helping him with the dairy operation.

Production records of Hillmont Enhancer Peach, taken when she was 2 years and 1 month old, show a 348-day milk production of 17,712 pounds. The fat count was 796 pounds or 4.5 percent. She produced 628 pounds of protein, or 3.5 percent.

Berkley said he will collect on his embryo buy when it becomes a calf and it is 3-months old, around the first of December.

Born May 7, 1990, the second highest consignment was Stonee-Ridge Miss Mariah-ET by Randy and Kim Brown of Acme.

Dave and Mike Countryman of Berlin bought the calf for $2,700. Miss Mariah's dam is Singing-Brook Marcie Bova-Twin. At 3 years and 11 months she gave 41,920 pounds of milk in 365 days. The fat content registered 3.5 percent or 1,470 pounds. Protein content was 2.8 percent or 1,139 pounds.

Six select calves were sold during the evening. They brought an average $1,812.50. Fourteen milking animals had a sale average of $2,032.14 and 12 bred heifers averaged $1,739.58. The total sale average on 33 head of animals sold was $1,882.58.

Clark Yoder of Salisbury was the auctioneer. Oren Bender of Accident read the pedigrees. Yoder said he has been auctioneering livestock sales for well over 30 years.

Sale co-chairmen were Andrew Meier and Mark Marteeny, both from Somerset. Selectors were Paul Countryman, Willard Maust, Andy Meier, and Mark Marteeny. Ringman was C. Sherman Allen.

Eastern National Holstein Sale

was not defeated at this year's sale, overall, the 1990 sale totaled and averaged well above the 1989 sale.

This year, 34 female Holsteins (born or promised), were sold for an average $5,568, bringing a total of $189,300.

Last year, 43 lots averaged $3,409 and totalled $115,900.

The top seller this year was purchased by Flame Syndicate of Millville.

As a 2-year-old cow, Mark Fife-ET had a production record of 29,368 pounds of milk, 1,325 pounds fat, and 1,042 pounds protein. At 3 years and 9 months of age, she is projected to post a 305-day record of 33,126 pounds of milk, 1,425 pounds of fat, and 1,060 pounds of protein.

The second highest selling animal was a January calf to Blackstar from New York's Kemview Farms, in Bainbridge. The dam, Kemview Zwarte-ET (VG86 at 3 years), has a 2-year, 4-month record of 27,330 pounds milk, 1,328 pounds butterfat, and 989 pounds protein. She has two sons going to Japan.

The buyer of the calf, at $14,500, was Bassett Farm of Cambridge, Vermont.

Bringing in the third highest money of the sale was another Blackstar-sired Pennsylvania calf, born April 5 to Woobine-K Valiant Eleanor-ET (2E-93)EEEE, of Woodbine Farms of Airville. The calf was bought for $14,000 by Jeff Woods of Madison, Wis.

It's the second year in a row that the Woodbine Farms cow has produced a calf in demand by buyers.

Eleanor has a 4-year, 2-month record of 34,807 pounds milk, 1,490 pounds butterfat, and 1,102 pounds protein.

Last year, Woodbine Farms offered a deal that the second highest price of the 1989 sale. Buyers last year paid $12,500 for first-choice female from five pregnancies from Valiant Eleanor-ET.

The fourth highest selling animal was still another Pennsylvania consignment, and apparently is to remain in the Keystone state. The senior heifer calf offered by Pease Farms, of Susquehanna, brought $10,000 from Lilac Syndicate, Berlin.

Its dam is Rosylba Ned Boy Jeston Lacey (VG86 at 5 years). At 5-years, 2-months, she posted a production record of 36,663 pounds milk in 365 days with 1,489 pounds of butter fat and 1,168 pounds of protein.

Overall, the sale has been one of the best offered, according to officials.

Executive Secretary of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association William Nichol acted as ringman during the sale which saw an estimated 500 participants and observers.

"I thought it was a very exciting sale," Nichol said. "There was a good crowd and some outstanding genetics offered. The bids came from all over the arena. It offered a lot more quality than last year."

The new direction of the annual sale, according to the Holstein Association, is "... to offer young females that the most selective buyer will seek. Many are full sisters or maternal sisters to bulls that have been exported to Japan. The Eastern National offers the next generation of bull mothers our buyers are already considering.

Consignments at the sale came from 10 states nationally, including Indiana, Texas, Wisconsin, Ohio, Maryland, New York, Pennsylvania, California, Maine, and Texas.

The sale was managed by the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. Auctioneers were William Kent, of Stafford, New York, and Miachael Weimer, of Emlenton.

While Blackstar-sired offerings lead the sale, high prices were also received from offspring of other top sires.

Additional Blackstar offerings brought prices of $4,500; $4,700; $3,500; $4,800; and $5,300.

Pigs, Humans Want Cleaner Air

For 14 years he has worked for Penn State in specializing and in redesigning buildings for adequate ventilation and manure handling systems.

Every confinement house has its own mixture of dusts and gases. Dust comes from many sources. It can absorb ammonia and other toxic or irritating gases that come from urine and feces on the building floor and manure pits under the building. Many of these dust particles are small enough to go deep into the lungs, carrying the gases with them and increasing irritation or inflammation of the lungs.

Meyer took a look at Martin's operation and devised a plan to install fans on the north side of the building.

Only one 14-inch fan is needed for every 60 feet, which makes a total of five fans. The ventilation reduces dust and toxic gases. During the summer, the fans blow air into the building. Martin and his sons manually turn the fans around for winter use to draw air out of the building. Thermostats shut off and start the fans to allow for natural ventilation whenever possible.

The natural ventilation saves dollars on electric bills. Another advantage is that when the electric goes off, the building is still adequately ventilated for several hours. An all-mechanical operation could result in dead pigs within an hour if the electricity was cut off.

Martin also used plywood to close the bottom front half of the open building. Now he has no problem with frozen pipes. He did the duct work himself by making them out of plywood.

"Price wise I could buy eight feet of plywood compared to one inch of plastic pipe," Martin said. Plastic pipe would have been easier to install, but Martin, who worked previously as a builder, installed the ducts with the help of his sons. The plywood ducts are screwed together and can be removed for easy cleaning.

Dust inhalation over time can result in fibrosis of lung tissues and reduces the efficiency and durability of equipment.

Because Martin's herd had pseudorabies during the time of the remodeling, the building needed to be completely cleaned and quarantined. Consequently, at the same time that he inserted duct work, pit ventilation was done.

"I notice the biggest benefit in hot summer and on windy, wintry days," Martin said. Feed costs save him an estimated $1,800 to $2,000.

The air is fresher, the pigs healthier, and the mortality rate is cut in half.

Now, both Martin and his pigs have less respiratory problems.

"It's a pleasure to care for the pigs now." Martin said, "When we move the pigs, the work load is much less because there is much less manure buildup."

Martin contends that to be in the pig business, a farmer needs to compete. Changes in the building has made that possible.

Martin encourages others to contact the extension. "Extension agents are ready to help with ideas. They have plans, measure the flow of air, tune the duct, drill holes to match the fan," he said. "Extension agents are free and interested in our work."

With proper ventilation, many swine producers reduce medication costs from $20 per pig to $4 or less.

It's been two years since Martin made the suggested changes. "Time enough to prove how efficient the changes really are," Meyer said.

With proper ventilation, many swine producers reduce medication costs from $20 per pig to $4 or less.

Raymond and his wife, Vera, also raise 40 Holsteins and the grain needed for the cows and heifers. They grind and mix the feed for the hogs on the farm.

Farmers are quicker to react when their pigs exhibit distress symptoms than to their own respiratory problems. The most common respiratory symptoms that swine workers experience are coughing, sputum production, chest tightness, shortness of breath, and wheezing. Those who work with pigs for more than two hours each day and for six years often find that their symptoms become progressively worse.

Some people experience chest tightness, coughing, and nasal and eye symptoms within 30 minutes of entering a swine confinement house.

Dr. Daniel Meyer, extension agricultural engineer, said, "You can't tell by looking if dust levels are too high. If dust is not on equipment, it is in the air."

Meyer is concerned with the damaging health problems that farmers experience from breathing the air. Delayed responses such as organic dust toxic syndrome show up four to six hours after working in a confinement house during a particularly dusty operation such as handling, moving, or sorting animals. Symptoms include fever, malaise, muscle aches and pains, headaches, cough, and tightness of chest.

Chronic health problems from chronic bronchitis are experienced by 58 percent of all swine confinement workers. This is three times as many swine confinement workers compared to farmers. Symptoms include chronic cough with excess phlegm and sometimes chronic wheezing. Smokers are even more heavily affected. Most persons, if they stop working in the swine confinement houses, find that their symptoms subside within a few months, but for some, the symptoms persist for two years or more.

More dangerous than breathing dust in the confinement houses is inhaling toxic gases, which are produced when the manure pit is agitated. This can cause sudden collapse associated with respiratory paralysis and pulmonary edema. A number of deaths have resulted from this exposure.

As part of Dr. Meyer's concern with the health problems caused by working in the swine confinement houses, Meyer spoke to pulmonary specialists at the Hershey Medical Center in Hershey.

He told them, "You can treat a patient who exhibits problems, but if you send him home, he's right back in the problem."

He believes that doctors who understand the complications from working in confinement buildings can help patients reduce risks.

One of the ways to reduce breathing harmful dust is using a mask. "Unfortunately, many masks used reduce dust inhalation by only 10 percent."

Meyer demonstrated a machine that monitors the microns in the air. By comparing a cheap mask with a good one, a cartridge unit, and an air stream helmet, the monitor showed that an air stream helmet reduces dust inhalation by 70 percent.

The air stream mask costs $300, a price that farmers are reluctant to pay even if they are experiencing breathing problems, but a small price to pay compared with medical bills.

Meyer used slides to document that air quality can be improved by making engineering and management changes. Doctors who understand the source of the problem, and who know how the problems can be alleviated can help patients find solutions.

Dr. John Stauffer of Hershey Medical Center questions Penn State Extension safety specialist Dr. Dennis Murphy, center, and Penn State agricultural engineer Dr. Daniel Meyer about solutions to swine confinement houses that cause health problems for humans and animals.

Raymond Martin's sons, Keith, 6, and Kevin, 12, work in front of the Nebraska-style hog building where they raise 1,000 feeder pigs to finish. With the help of Penn State Extension, Martin revamped his operation for better air quality. He said, "It's a pleasure to work in the building now." The changes also resulted in healthier pigs, less mortality, lower feed bills, and reduced maintenance.

Local Dairy Farms Threatened By Upper Midwest Proposals

BATAVIA, NY — Farm organizations in the Upper Midwest have asked the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to adopt changes to the Federal Milk Marketing Order Program which would lower prices paid to Northeast dairy farmers and most likely increase the price that consumers pay for milk. These proposals, if enacted, would cost the region's milk producers anywhere from $100 to $200 million annually.

"The northeast dairy farmer will suffer price cuts which will put many out of business and push consumer prices up as the region's milk supply shrinks," says Steve Kerr, executive director of the Council of Northeast Farmer Cooperatives (CNFC). "In an effort to increase their own farmers' prices, Upper Midwest politicians have developed proposals that would hurt dairy farmers throughout the rest of the country. That's a pity."

These proposals are being presented at a number of locations around the country as part of a national Federal Milk Marketing Order hearing. The USDA administers the milk marketing order program to help stabilize prices to farmers and consumers. Roughly 80 percent of all the fluid milk sold in the United States is marketed under the terms of the milk marketing order program.

"The Upper Midwest proposals would cost the average Northeast dairy farmer between $4,000 and $8,000 annually," says Kerr. "Since that is a significant share of many a farmer's net income, a loss of that magnitude would cause many farmers to quit dairying. Local milk supplies would surely decline, forcing consumers to pay the additional cost of transporting milk and dairy products from distant states. It is to everyone's advantage to have fresh, locally produced milk."

To fight the proposals submitted by the Upper Midwest, the Regional Cooperative Marketing Agency (RCMA) and CNFC have formed a coalition with Niagara Milk Cooperative, state Farm Bureau associations, state Farmers' Union associations, state Department of Agriculture, the Grange, farm supply dealers, private milk handlers and key agricultural legislators. This coalition, representing farmers from Pennsylvania to Maine, will present testimony at the hearing that will take palce in Syracuse, N.Y., from October 1-5.

"This hearing will be crucial for the Northeast dairy community and the regional economies that depend upon the dollars spent by dairymen," Kerr said. "Dairying is either the first or second most important agricultural industry in every single Northeast state."

Demo Days

After a hearty farm breakfast, about 200 farmers saw several pieces of farm equipment demonstrated on the Skiles farm located north of Gap. The on-farm demonstrations included manure pumps, a newspaper bedding chopper, manure wagons and TMR feeding wagon. The event was Lapp's Barn Equipment Demo Day. A 320 Oswalt TMR mixer is demonstrated, left and above, is the N-Tech liquid manure pump. Breakfast was served Wednesday morning on the upper floor of the bank barn.

30 YEARS AGO
THIS WEEK

-The herd of Hiram Aungst, Elizabethtown R1, posted the county's highest butterfat average for the month of August, according to official Dairy Herd Improvement records released this week.

The 20 registered and grade Holstein cows made an average of 59 pounds of butterfat on 1,516 pounds of milk witha 3.9 per cent test.

Posey, a registered Holstein in the herd of J. Mowery Frey, Jr., Lancaster R7, completed the highest 305 day lactation with 21,323 lbs. of milk with 926 pounds of fat and a 4.3 per cent test.

-Robert Kauffman of Manheim R1 took nine first place ribbons on his way to winning the grand championship of the Manheim Farm Show Holstein Exhibition. The top animal was a two year-old cow which was junior champion of the same show last year.

Junior championship as well as the 4-H championship in the Holstein judging went to Harold Brubaker of Mount Joy R1.

Judy Flory, whose junior yearling Ayrshire has not been defeated in class competition took the grand championship in the breed judging.

-Glen Foreman, Manheim R3, came within one first place of making a clean sweep in the Baby Beef show at the Manheim Farm Show Wednesday night.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Foreman, a two-time winner of the Beef steer competition at the Pa. Farm Show, in addition to garnering the grand championship ribbon, took honors for fattest steer and showmanship. He finished second behind Marlin Cassel, Manheim R1, in the fitting contest.

Runner-up in the judging was the Angus exhibited by Arlene Long, Manheim R4. Miss Long placed fourth in both the fitting and showing contests.

Lancaster Co. Farmers Association Evaluates Year

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

INTERCOURSE (Lancaster Co.) — "It's been a good, growing year for crop production," Ellis Crowl told Lancaster County Farmers' Association, "but new storm clouds are on the horizon."

Crowl, state director of the association, believes the clouds are government policies that hinder farming. He urged members attending the annual banquet held at Intercourse to be knowlegeable and involved in politics to safeguard the interests of farmers.

He recounted incidents where PFA's influence has had positive results in policy making on milk pricing and debates on chemical versus organic farming.

California is now facing the Clean and Green act, which would eliminate using herbicides and pesticides. The state association is sending $1,000 to help California lobby for the farmers' viewpoint since such a law would eventually affect Pennsylvania legislation.

Crowl also reported that Blue Shield and Blue Cross premiums have increased 7.8 percent for farmers. He cautioned farmers to make sure all employees even if they work only a few days are covered by workmen's compensation. He reminded them that PFA does have a lawyer to help with labor issues that members, especially fruit growers, face.

During the business session the following were chosen as directors: Ike Geib, district 2; Marvin Witmer, district 3; Earl Newcomer, district 5; Paul Hartz, district 8; Gordon Hoover, district 10; and Willis Krantz, district 11.

Reelection of officers were Gordon Hoover, president; Esther Stoltzfus, and treasurer, Don Ranck, secretary. Carl Herr was elected vice president.

The association passed the following resolutions:

1. We believe bio-technology is inevitable in the future of agriculture and will be necessary for the American farmer to stay competitive in the marketplace. We believe the responsibility for setting guidelines for the use of this new science should rest with Federal Food and Drug Administration with guidance from commodity co-ops and farm organizations.

2. We believe judges should be selected by local committee and approved by the state legislature. The local committee should be made up of judges, lawyers, and cititzens. The judges should serve a term of six years and every six years face a retention election by ballot.

3a. We believe health care insurance premiums should be fully deductible by self-employed people.

3b. We oppose national health insurance programs and believe private industry should continue to provide health care.

New directors chosen at the annual Lancaster County Association banquet included, left to right, Marvin Witmer, district 3; Ike Geib, district 2, and Earl Newcomer, district 5.

State Grange Wants Status Quo Maintained

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Maintaining a status quo in the federal milk order system would be the wisest move and could avoid turning the clock back to unstable marketing such as those that existed in the 1930s, a representative of the Pennsylvania State Grange told the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

USDA Secretary Clayton Yeutter called hearings Oct. 2 to consider proposed changes in federal milk orders. The pricing of milk in the federal order system and the appropriate price level for Class II milk is under review by the USDA. The hearings also include discussion on a uniform system of classifying milk according to use and treatment of reconstituted milk.

Robert Pardoe, chairman of the dairy committee of the Pennsylvania State Grange, testified in support of the current Federal Order system and the differentials as they exist in the Northeast.

"Any proposal to eliminate the federal order system would return our industry to the unstable marketing that existed before 1937," said Pardoe, a Northumberland County dairy farmer. "I am old enough to remember somewhat the erratic and widely fluctuating prices that existed in the late twenties and early thirties.

"Proposals that would lower our differentials and, therefore, our price in the Northeast are unwarranted," he said. "It is rare that our price on the farm fully covers the cost of production. The money from our price of milk comes from our market and does not affect producers in other parts of the country."

Pardoe told the USDA hearing board that it is not apparent how the lowering of the present differentials in the Northeast will help producers in the upper Midwest.

Last-Time Hog Exhibitor Gets Champ Going-Away Gift At New Holland

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — "I'm so excited!" said a smiling Laura Folker, 18, of New Holland, as she held up the grand championship trophy for her family and friends to see.

Laura, a graduate of Garden Spot High School and a student at St. Joseph's School of Nursing in Lancaster, clinched the grand champion swine honors with her light heavyweight Hampshire cross gilt at the New Holland Farmers Fair at the Sales Stables Tuesday night.

Laura has exhibited swine at "about every New Holland show there has been," she said, laughing, "so many. Between me and my brother, Chad, we have a whole room filled with trophies."

Laura has shown swine since she was about 8 years old, and has exhibited at other fairs. But because of her involvement with nursing school, she no longer has time to exhibit fair animals at the Harrisburg Farm Show and New Holland Farmers Fair. So the Manheim Fair hog show next week will be her last show. "But I am so happy to win with this last show!"

In addition to a $10 premium, the grand championship carried an additional $200 cash award donated anonymously. The reserve championship included an additional $100 anonymous cash donation.

Judge Ken Winebark, a Lebanon County extension agent, was impressed with the grand champion black-belted gilt's length of body and extreme leaness.

Reserve champion hog was won by Sarah Boyd, 9, who also won reserve champion hog at the Ephrata Fair last week. This is Sarah's first year of exhibiting. She attends Clay Elementary School.

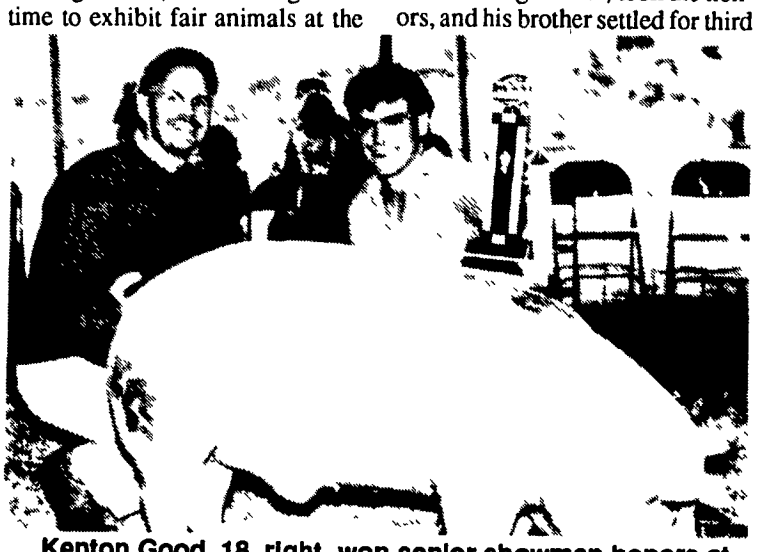
For the senior showmanship contest, two brothers, Kenton and Kurtis, competed for the trophy. In the end, Kenton, 18, a Lancaster Mennonite graduate, took the honors, and his brother settled for third place. Kenton has been exhibiting swine for about nine years, and won with a Hamp/York cross barrow.

In the junior showmanship competition, Cory Pfautz, 12, from Warwick Middle School, picked up the champion honors. This is his fifth year of exhibiting and he is a member of 4-H.

Senior fitting champion was Steve Denlinger, 13, from Gordonville. Junior fitter champion was Clark Stoltzfus, 11, from Hinkletown.

Following is a list of show placings.

Laura Folker, 18, right, holds up the grand champion swine trophy at the New Holland Farmers Fair Swine Show Tuesday night. Laura is excited about winning the trophy, since this show will be her last at New Holland. Judge Ken Winebark, Lebanon County extension agent, liked the Hampshire gilt's length of body and extreme leaness.



Kenton Good, 18, right, won senior showman honors at the New Holland Fair Swine Show Tuesday night. Judge for the show was Ken Winebark, Lebanon County extension agent.

Cory Pfautz, 12, right, won junior showmanship honors Tuesday night at the New Holland Fair Swine Show. Ken Winebark, Lebanon County extension agent, judged the show.

DOEBLER'S INTRODUCES NEW SECOND GENERATION HYBRIDS

by Ted Doebler

I'm Ted Doebler, hoping you'll buy a bag or two of our new, second generation hybrids. Then let us know how they do for you.

That old adage — "If it's not broke, don't fix it" — doesn't apply to corn breeding.

Our job at Doebler's is to make the best better. And always has been.

This year, research director Bill Camerer and his crew have done themselves proud with six new hybrids for 1991.

Showing great promise are second generation hybrids of Doebler's high yielding 66XP, 75X and 86XA. See box.

Be sure to take a close look at 650A-3 way and 29XA, too. They are giving 650-3 way and 29X the battle of their lives.

And you have to be impressed with the sturdy 61X that outgunned 65X in our trials by 8.1 bushels.

First of the second generation

A couple of years ago, Bill Camerer and his crew took our popular 66XP, 75X and 86XA and added a few genetic wrinkles.

Result — exciting new second generation hybrids with strong showy plants, improved health and a boost in yields.

The good news is that all are for sale this year. The bad news? Seed supply is limited.

Of course, we're not about to retire 66XP, 75X or 86XA. They've already proved themselves in research and on the farm.

These new hybrids ready to go

DOEBLER 69XP, 105 days. Dark green leaves. Sturdy. Healthy. And it shows no respect for our top performing 66XP. In 28 research comparisons, 69XP was 3.6 bu. better, 6/10th wetter and 1/2% better standup. Ears fill early.

DOEBLER 61X, 100 days. If you like 65X, you'll love this newcomer. In Doebler trials, 61X was 8.1 bu. better, 0.1% wetter and showed 3% less broken stalks and 1% stronger roots. Shorter than 65X. Heavier stalks. Widely adaptable.

DOEBLER 650A-3 way, 100 days. We fine-tuned 650-3 and payoff is big — an extra 9.6 bushels, 2% better standup, 4" shorter and a scant 0.1% wetter. Big ears also promise high energy silage. A modified single with 3-way price.

DOEBLER 29XA, 81 days. "A" is for "advance." And 29XA shows how, topping 29X by 5.3 bu. with 1% better roots and stalks. Plants 4" taller and ears 1" higher. Pick or put up in silo. Big grain and silage yields for maturity.

HYBRIDS FOR THE 90'S

World Plowing Match

had been reclaimed from the sea by forming dikes and pumping out the water. A retired farmer met them in Amsterdam, helped them locate housing and introduced them to local farmers.

The world competition was held on September 21 and 22, but Frank and Glenn used their early arrival time to break in their new equipment and make changes in plow settings to their personal tastes.

When you plow in world competition, you need to make sure you have no ridge in the opening split, have no wheel marks and have all grass, stubble, and root systems covered. This takes a plow with many vertical and horizontal adjustments. And it takes an operator with experience to know how to make these adjustments.

The contestants have 20 minutes to prepare the first opening split round. And then they plow at two to three MPH to be sure every clod falls into the right place. The judges allow three hours to complete the task. In the last pass, they want to see a shallow furrow and on the return, the front bottom needs to roll up enough soil to match the last run and the second bottom must finish the plot with all level ridges.

"You have 55 of the best plowmen in the world from 28 countries, so you must have a very dedicated approach if you are going to finish in the top 20," Burkhart said. "One man plowed 30 practice plots at home.

"And the best plowmen expect to win. You could tell from the expression on the face of the man who finished third that he was completely dissatisfied with the judges' decision. This was my first national plowing experience and I came away feeling better about finishing 42 out of 55 than he did with third place."

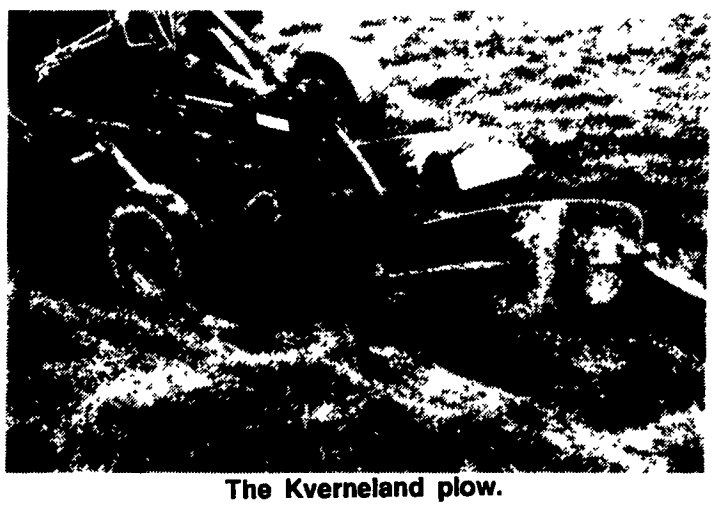
Teams of judges check various areas of the competition, so you have the combined opinion of many judges in the final scores. A small mistake can cut you out of the top ten. Many scores were only one or two points apart.

The farm family that hosted the Burkharts raised potatoes, sugar beats, corn and alfalfa and had 50 milk cows. The government owns all the land and the farmer owns the buildings and equipment. They have a surplus of potatoes and dairy products even though they export 60 percent of their production. Taxes and social security fees take 50 percent of the wages.

Countries with plowmen represented in the world competition included, the Soviet Union, Latvia, Estonia, Findland, France, Switzerland, Austria, Australia, Zimbabway and Kenya. The plowman from Australia flew 22 hours to be in the contest. In the flag raising ceremony, Burkhart was placed beside the contestants from the Soviet Union.

"We had quite an experience meeting all these other farmers," Burkhart said. "These fellows are all in the same situation as we are. They are working to get a better dollar out of the land. In Holland, they have an overabunance of production and don't know what to do.

"Everyone talked about their land conditions and what they have to work with. I made the remark, I believe I'm ready to go home, pay my taxes and take another try at it," Burkhart said. "When you realize these fellows are working land that doesn't belong to them and the government controls the whole program, we're not so bad off."



The Kverneland plow.

Frank Burkhart ready for world plowing competition.

Foraging Around

By Dr. John E. Baylor
Director of Market Development
Beachley-Hardy Seed Company

As with any member of a Royal Family, alfalfa has more pressures on it than most other perennial forages. And, disease wise, 1990 was no exception.

Over the past several years a great deal of attention has been paid to the five major diseases attacking alfalfa in the East - Bacterial Wilt, Phytophthora Root Rot, Fusarium Wilt, Anthracnose, and Verticillium Wilt. And few would dispute that these are the major five. Alfalfa breeders throughout the country have devoted most of their breeding efforts to developing varieties with resistance to these diseases. And, when we refer to varieties with multiple pest resistance we're referring primarily to resistance to these five diseases.

But there are other diseases attacking alfalfa too. And in this column I'd like to review these briefly and hopefully point out their relative importance.

Leaf And Stem Disease

During the past growing season Dr. Ken Leath, Forage Pathologist, at the USDA Pasture Lab, has identified no fewer than five leaf and/or stem diseases on alfalfa. Here's a brief run-down.

Common Leaf Spot- a leaf disease that occurs wherever alfalfa is grown and develops during moist periods at moderate to cool temperatures.

Lepto Leaf Spot - generally infects young leaves, and the greatest damage occurs on young growth after clipping if favorable, moist weather conditions occur at that time. In older growth only the young upper leaves become infected and have typical symptoms, but seldom die.

Stemphylium Leaf Spot- present in much of the alfalfa growing areas and is favored by warm, moist weather.

Spring Black Stem- also referred to as Phoma leaf and stem disease. Blacked stems are a normal symptom. Favored by cool, moist weather.

Bacterial Leaf Spot- a relatively uncommon disease in our area, but never-the-less identified several times this year. Again favored by moist weather.

I'm sure you get the picture on these diseases. All are favored by moist weather. Some develop under cooler conditions, others when it's hot and muggy. But, regardless, weather conditions in 1990 were ideal for their development.

Under severe conditions all will cause a loss of leaves, and, thus, loss in quality. They seldom cause stand loss. To date alfalfa breeders have these diseases on the back burner in terms of breeding for resistance. But they will get more attention in the years ahead.

Other Diseases

There are two other diseases you may have heard of. One is Sclerotinia Crown and Stem Rot, the other Aphanomyces.

Sclerotinia does pose a threat under certain conditions. You may notice it in early spring on isolated plants of new late summer seedings, and especially in no-till plantings. Infection occurs in the fall. But you'll find it in the spring when the crown or basal part of the stem may be soft and discolored. Later on a white fluffy mass grows over the area forming hard, black bodies called sclerotia. These stick to the surface or may become embedded in the stems or crowns. Remember, you're most likely to observe this disease in the spring on no-till seedings made the previous summer, especially in southern Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. And under epidemic conditions it can cause stand thinning. Red clover seedings are more susceptable than alfalfa, but if the organism is present most legumes can be affected.

Finally, Aphanomyces is a relatively newcomer as a potential alfalfa disease problem. But it has gotten some press. Aphanomyces root rot is caused by a water-loving fungus, and along with two other fungi, Phytophthora and Pythium, are common causes of seedling damping-off and poor stand establishment of alfalfa. This disease has been known as a pathogen of peas and beans for decades. And, while the organism has been isolated from soils in several eastern states, to date its effect on alfalfa establishment or productivity has not been documented outside of the pea growing areas of Central Wisconsin.

Some progress had been made to develop varieties with limited resistance to this disease. However, to complicate the problem Wisconsin workers recently detected a second race (race 2) of the organism which is highly pathogenic to varieties with resistance or tolerance to race 1. So, first of all, we don't know if the disease is or will be a problem in the Northeast. Never-the-less, in terms of resistance, for alfalfa breeders it's "back to the drawing board" in search of Aphanomyces-resistant varieties.

"Farming is a big investment...

Time is valuable. An equipment breakdown in the field, delayed supplies, or sudden weather changes mean lost dollars, without quick reaction. Our GE mobile radio system gives us greater control and coordination over our operation. It's a farmer's friend."

Roger C. Garber

With harvest season in full swing, your farm and equipment need to be operating at full potential. That's why more farmers are turning to General Electric Mobile Radio Systems. They provide quick, cost effective communications from home or field. It's like having another "farm hand" to help with the chores.

Jersey Research Makes Strong Advances

REYNOLDSBURG, Ohio — The growing interest in scientific research on the Jersey cow was evidenced by the numerous presentations made this summer at both the National and Regional Meetings of the American Dairy Science Association (ADSA).

As the Jersey popularion continues to flourish, the need for more information on nutrition, genetics, and milk composition, specific to Jerseys, becomes of paramount importance.

The universities and research centers that presented Jersey research findings at this summer's meetings include: USDA-ARS, Beltsville, Md; USDA-ARS, Dairy Experiment Station, Lewisburg, Tenn; North Carolinia State University, Raleigh; The Pennsylvania State University, College Park; The University of Arizona, Tucson; The University of Vermont, Burlington; and Monsanto Co., Mo.

The presentations covered energy metabolism in Jerseys; the effects of BST on Jerseys in regard to milk yield, protein yield and somatic cell count; and milk composition of half-Danish and U.S. Jerseys. Discussions focusing on genetics looked at the relationships between selection for particular traits and future viability and productivity. Another presentation examined the genetic base for American Jerseys.

This year through a competitive grants program The American Jersey Cattle Club and National All-Jersey Inc. (AJCC-NAJ) awarded partial or full funding for eight research projects. The total of $24,460 approved for funding came from interest generated from the AJCC Research Foundation.

Current research projects are investigating genetic abnormalities, calculation of the PTI formula, genetic markers associated with milk production traits, Jersey milk composition and effects of feeding on milk composition, high-protein diet effects on Jersey performance, and the development of voluntary intake equations for lactating Jerseys with and without BST treatment.

The American Jersey Cattle Club salutes all these research institutions for taking a leadership role in the area of Jersey research.

HEALTHY PEOPLE AND HEALTHY LIVESTOCK COME FROM HEALTHY FOOD AND FEED

which in turn comes from healthy soil. Healthy soil does not come from chemicals, which is the reason for bugs, dieseases, compaction and toxic feed.

Many farmers have learned that their livestock do much better on non toxic feed. We have a huge demand for non toxic corn, soybeans, and speltz by the semi-load at $3.00 per bu. for corn, $8.00 for yellow beans, $12.00 for white beans, and $3.20 for speltz. Can't get enough.

Our Nutri Carb fertilizer detoxifies your soil in one year. It is the fastest thing we know of. It is very high in precious carbon and over 100 minerals and trace elements, the missing things. Apply it this fall, the sooner the better, for non toxic crops next year. It doesn't dissipate. It lasts for years, which will help you in the forthcoming recession or depression when your income will be lower and your oil related products (chemicals) will be higher. On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

On the coffee table in the living room sits a basket of produce, representative of the harvest of the season. In the graceful, boat-shaped wicker container, a surprise gift from the Farmer a few years back, is yellow field corn, beige-colored butternut squash and bright-orange pumpkins.

These teeny pumpkins amuse me every time I pass by their display spot. The concept of the adorable, diminutive Jack Be Little fruits enthralled me from the moment I first saw them advertised, a couple of Januarys ago, when seed catalogs hit the mailbox.

Though marketed as pumpkins, Jack Be Littles are a decorative, long-lasting fruit, more like a gourd. Catalog advertising claims they'll last up to eight months, although fresh pine and pinecones will probably take their place in my basket display long before that time.

Two hills of Jack Be Littles went into our garden in late May, their yield intended for sharing with small friends come harvest season. But, the Jack-Be-Little outcome was the final blow in a series of garden disasters that combined to make my supposedly green thumb look like one afflicted with a bad case of Black Spot.

The problem simply boiled down to too much of a good thing - like moisture. (After years of drought, I'm not complaining. Just explaining.)

During the early season, the garden was a dream - tall, thick Swiss chard, plentiful peas, a best-ever display of gorgeous snapdragons, lush tomato plants. Even the several hills of potatoes, which I rarely fool with because of the excellent spud crops produced by neighboring growers, provided a basketful of large, tasty, meal material.

Then, enticed by a couple of extended periods of moisture, the entire neighborhood's insect population seemed to converge on the string beans and the squash, the cantaloupes, the late broccoli and cauliflower plants. They moved all their kin in under the marigolds planted in the curcubit hills to discourge insects and basked in the glow of the lime sprinkled to thwart their dining efforts.

Boy, did they bug my garden.

And what the bugs missed, a world-record crop of grasses grew over top of, underneath and through. We returned mid-August from vacation to a garden of absolutely lush growth - mostly fall panicum and foxtail grass, mingled with a couple of super-healthy, seed-fat stalks of lambs' quarters and more than a smattering of ragweed.

Tomatoes lay split and rotting under tangled vines facing an unseasonably early demise due to the excessive wetness. A planting of carrots had simply ceased to exist under a sprawling weed covered with little green, inedible-looking, berries. Tangled tenacles of grass and upstart limbs of weeds snaked around the once-lovely row of gladioli. Some of the Long Keeper tomatoes were already long gone.

And the Jack Be Little stalks had already gone on to that big pumpkin patch in the sky.

Only a stand of zinnias and cockscomb, tall and tough enough to rise above the grass takeover, and one brave row of late spring beans, remained. Eventually, I remembered two pepper stalks missed in the initial inventory taking.

A couple of passes with the lawn mower opened passageways to the still viable pepper plants, shed some light on the whereabouts of the Swiss chard, and offered what was left of the Long Keeper tomatoes a second shot at extended shelf life.

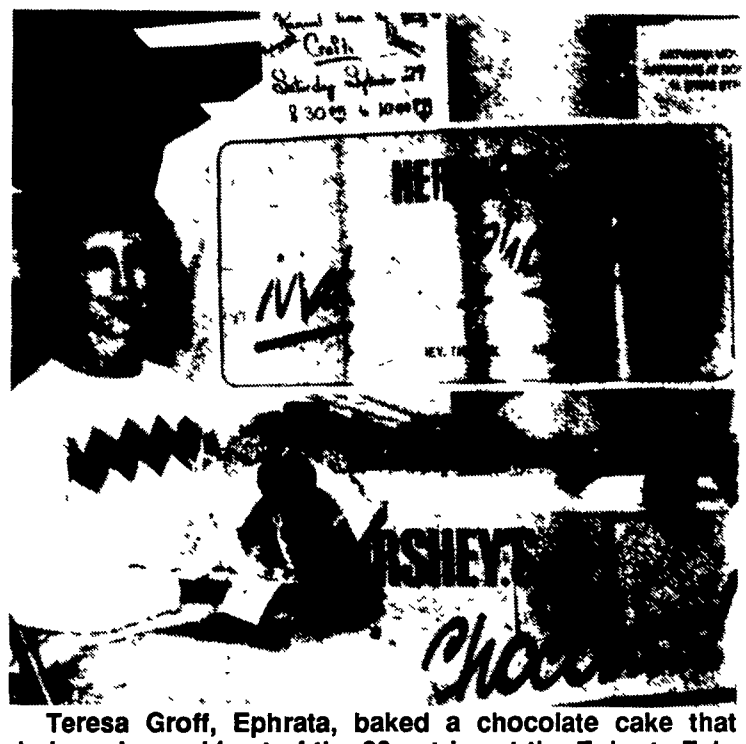
Last week, enticed by the striking display of pumpkins at a favorite local farm market, I simply traded a dollar bill for five of the adorable Jack Be Little pumpkins for my seasonal basket display. No planting. No weeding.

An early frost hit the garden about the same time. Didn't touch the weeds. Ddidn't even wilt the grass.

All it nipped was the row of late string beans. Honest.

Remind me to shred the seed catalogs come January.

Prize-Winning Chocolate Cake Off To Farm Show



Teresa Groff, Ephrata, baked a chocolate cake that judges deemed best of the 20 entries at the Ephrata Fair. Teresa doesn't generally enter contests, but when she was laid off from her job two days before the competition, she decided to enter a cake using a handed-down recipe that doesn't call for eggs since she is allergic to them. Two days after Teresa won the blue ribbon, she was called back to work.

The cake competition is sponsored by Hershey's Chocolate at 112 fairs scattered across the state. In addition to winning $25, winners at each fair are eligible to enter the chocolate cake competition at the Pennsylvania Farm Show in January.

How To Select Heart Healthy Salad Dressings

If you are trying to eat for better health or if you are trying to lose weight, salad dressings need to be selected with care. Most commercial salad dressings, whether creamy or oily, are primarily fat, with 90% of their calories coming from the oil -- usually soybean -- they contain.

Some commercial salad dressings also contain egg, cream and cheese. Two tablespoons of blue cheese, ranch-style or Russian salad dressing on a lunch-sized green salad can add 150 calories and 16 grams of fat to your daily intake of calories and fat. However, there are ways to avoid all these extra calories and fat. Read carefully the following tips:

1. Make your own vinegar-and-oil dressings. The classic recipe for vinaigrette calls for a three-to-one ratio of oil to vinegar which results in a dressing with about 90 calories per tablespoon. To cut down on calories and fat use less oil. Try vinegars flavored with herbs, or add your own herbs. Gourmet vinegars are rather expensive, and a little goes a long way. Choose from one of the following oils: olive oil (highest in monounsaturated fatty acids), canola, safflower, and sunflower (the three lowest in saturated fatty acids). All oils have the same number of calories and amount of fat (125 calories and 14 grams of fat per tablespoon).

2. When you eat out, ask that the dressing be served on the side, and then measure it with a teaspoon.

3. Lower the calories in your favorite prepared dressing by adding a low-fat ingredient. Mayonnaise can be thinned with lemon juice, vinegar, plain nonfat yogurt, or pureed fresh tomato.

4. Try using no oil at all. Some individuals like plain lemon or lime juice. Experiment with combinations of tomato puree or juice, plain nonfat yogurt or buttermilk, apple juice, vinegars or various flavors, dry or prepared mustard, minced or crushed garlic, onion, herbs, curry powder, and hot pepper sauce or Worcestershire sauce. When you find the combination you like, write it down so you can remember your creation next time you need to prepare salad dressing.

5. There are many "light" dressings available in the supermarket today. The term may mean nothing. You need to carefully read the nutrition information on the label. Water or juice should almost always by the first ingredient (remember ingredients are listed in order of amounts used). Some are made with little or no oil and most are low in fat and calories. Don't allow the name to fool you. READ THE LABEL!

I'd like to share with you a favorite low-fat, low calorie cheese dip and salad dressing recipe with you.

Zippy Cheese Dressing

1 cup low-fat cottage cheese
1 teaspoon horseradish
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 tablespoon grated onion

Combine all ingredients in blender or food processor and blend well. Keep in refrigerator until ready to use. (Prepare several hours before using so flavors have an opportunity to blend.) Makes 1¼ cups.

April Moll And Daughters Operate Steer Farm

VAL VANTASSEL
Berks Co. Correspondent

ORWIGSBURG (Schuylkill Co.) — "I'm a farmer not a housewife," April Moll said emphatically.

April isn't exaggerating when she states her profession. With responsibility for 50 Charolais cows and 100 dairy replacements as well as 250-acres of cropland, April is busy from morning to night with farm work.

The work is hard but April isn't complaining. Unlike many wives who got the farm when they married the farmer, April has been dreaming of working on the farm since her youth.

"I think farming is an infection that gets into the blood. You just can't get rid of it," she explained scratching the ear of her golden retriever, Dancer.

Walking toward the bank barn, April reminisced about her love of agriculture. "My parents had a dairy herd and they just couldn't keep me out of the barn. I started with Jerseys and when my parents sold their herd I kept my animals."

"I was 11 years old when the herd went so I had to milk my animals every morning before school. We used the milk to make butter, among other things," Moll said.

Eventually, April's parents, Albert and Mary Jane Green, sold their Strausstown home and moved into the Blue Mountain School District. "I wasn't allowed in the agriculture program at Tulpehocken, but I was welcomed to join the FFA in Blue Mountain. I only had two years but I learned some important things there. I had a chance to weld and I do all our on-farm welding jobs."

It was during her high school years that April received her first Charolais. "There didn't seem to be that much future in dairying for me so I decided to try a beef animal."

After graduation, April spent several years as a milker before entering Penn State in agriculture education.

"I was 24 before I went to Penn State. While I was student teaching I realized that I had to choose between teaching and farming. I wanted to farm."

April and her husband, Frank, started developing their beef herd 13 years ago and bought their own farm two years later. Frank has his own veterinary practice. While many farmers might think a spouse in the medicine business would be an ideal arrangement, April pointed out that it could be a drawback. "Frank has a large animal practice. He is on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Even when we make arrangements to do a job together, someone can call with a case of milk fever and he has to leave."

While the Molls do hire a teenager part time, April and her three daughters, Jennie, Melissa and Heather, take care of most of the work themselves.

"The girls feed the calves. We have about 20 dairy calves that we keep in hutches. We buy them from local farmers and raise them. After they are bred we let the farmer who sold the animals to us have the option of buying them back," April said.

Most of the 100 head of replacement animals are grades. "An area farmer has been thinking of retiring and recently sold us some of his registered calves."

Jennie, 11, has already picked out a winner to take to next year's fairs.

"I really want to be a farmer and I want to have a dairy herd," she explained as she led the calf out for a picture. Jennie already has quite a start on a beef herd with four Charolais animals of her own. She also augments her beef and dairy enterprises with horse feeding for a neighbor.

"She really wants to be a farmer," April said. "Her grades at school are excellent and she is planning on going to college. We'll just have to wait and see what she does." Jennie recently joined the Blue Mountain Jr. High FFA program.

Melissa, 10, and Heather, 9, haven't made any career plans. "I'm going to wait another year to decide," Heather declared.

April isn't pushing the farm on her daughters. "I'm not encouraging them and I'm not discouraging them. They have to make up their own minds. They are good help and we're glad to have them getting involved in the farm."

The girls have a couple of incentives for getting their chores done. This summer they earned an Nintendo for helping out. They also earn animals for their work.

That's quite a reward considering the prizes they've earned with their market steers and breeding animals. Melissa topped the Schuylkill Fair Market Steer Show for the second time in three years. "It was a mistake. Mom picked the wrong animal," Melissa explained.

"I try to pick out the animal I think is going to do the best when they're small. Then we give the best steer to a different girl each year. Normally I do pretty well because I know how their mothers did and that tells me who should be best. It was Jennie's year to have the best animal, but it just didn't work out that way," April said.

April and her daughters, Jennifer, Melissa and Heather, work together to take care of the family's 100 head of dairy replacements and 50 head of Charolais beef.

Jennie did have the top breeding Charolais at the show followed by Heather's reserve.

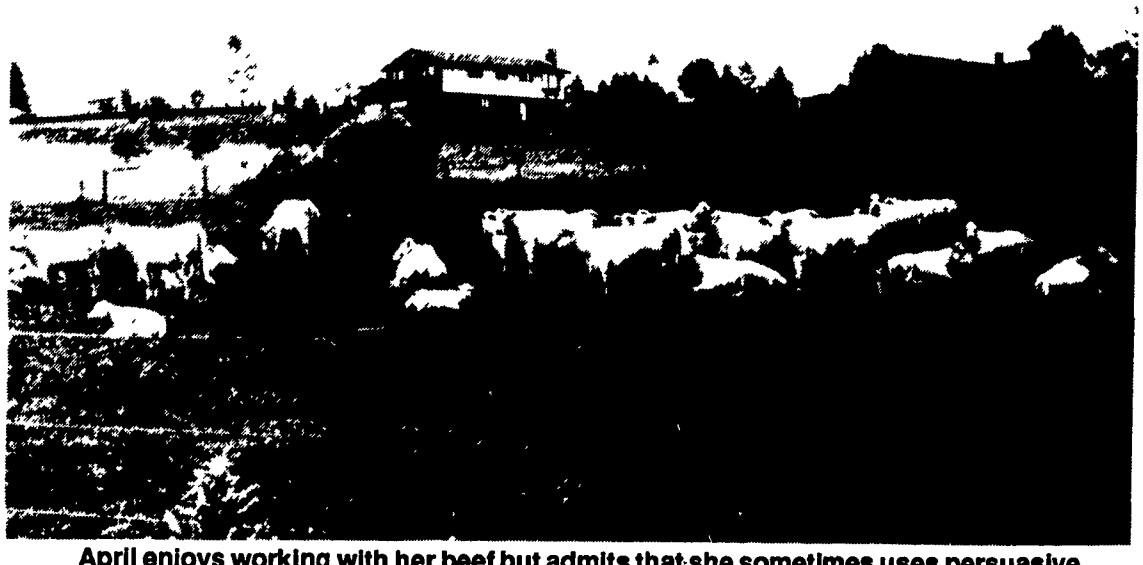
The barn on the Walnut Lane farm is full of replacements. April points out her paper shredder and skid loader with the same sense of pride most women show in new appliances.

"We're short bedding this year so we're using newspaper," she said. "Neighbors bring us newspapers and we get additional paper from the Times News in Carbon County."

"The shredder works well but it's noisy," Melissa said.

"It's also dusty," her mother added.

April bought her first beef animal 18 years ago. Today she and her daughters have 50 Charolais cows to work with. The Charolais are kept on a 20-acre lot surrounded by residential housing.



April enjoys working with her beef but admits that she sometimes uses persuasive techniques rather than brawn to work with the big animals. Despite her size she and her daughters manage the herd with minimal help from her husband, Frank.

April uses a small skid loader for cleaning the barns. "We have a skid loader on the farm here at home to clean the barn and feed the replacements. We have another at the farm with the beef animals. We have to have small ones because of the low ceiling clearance. Sometimes it feels like you're trying to clean the barn with a spoon but we are able to do a good job in the corners. Using a skid loader for feeding saved us from having to put a feeding system in."

Despite modern conveniences, there is still plenty of manual labor on the farm. Entering a second old barn, April commented "You never get ahead of fixing things. This farm is one of the oldest in the county."

"It's even got wooden pegs instead of nails," Melissa added.

The replacemnts are bred by a large, ornery bull. April scratched the animal's head while explaining his disposition. "He's fine as long as we're out here but I carry a stick when I step into the pen. I forgot my stick one day and he cornered me. I got bruised from the encounter."

Despite the Charolais reputation, April has found the breed relatively even tempered. "There are certain animals that are very protective of their young. When they're due to calf, we bring them into the barn and keep them there. I like to be able to walk in the fields without worry."

April's blind cow is a permanent resident in the barn." She's a nice type cow and she gives me nice calves. It's hard to work with her because she can't see gates. We have a number of 16-year-old cows in the herd as well."

For the most part cows come into the barn for three days to have their calves so April can keep an eye on the offspring. April isn't a large woman and she uses persuasion to get them to the barn. "I bribe them with feed and if that doesn't work I leave the gate open. It takes me a little longer but I get the job done."

With a goal of improving their breeding stock the Molls have been buying semen from national champions. The breeding program has resulted in some excellent animals but April admitted that running the beef operation a mile away from the main farm presents some management problems. "We have twenty acres and a barn here. My parents have the house across the road. It's tough catching animals in heat and I have to keep a close eye on them. During calving season I may run back over here at midnight to check on animals. It makes for some really long days."

On occasion it also calls for drastic action. "One animal was laying down hill and she couldn't get up to get to the barn. She was ready to calf and needed help but I didn't have a thing with me. Finally I took off my bra and used that. The animals were fine but it ruined the bra."

The pasture is surrounded by residential area, but the Molls have had only minor problems with their neighbors. "The acreage is small and we definitely are at the limits of our capacity. We do take manure and spread it elsewhere. The major complaint has been manure on the road. Occassionally the flies are a pest. For the most part everything is fine."

April attributes part of her good neighborhood relations to her high tensile fence. "My friend Helene Dreisbach said, 'High Tensile fence is better than a mink coat.' She's right!

Since the operation has all the animals it can handle, the Molls are looking for quality. "We are now ready to start selling animals for breeding purposes. My problem is that for people to realize that you have quality animals you have to attend the national shows. Right now I just don't have time to do that and run the farm too. The girls will be taking animals to the Farm Show, and we hope that will help. We're looking forward to selling animals to 4-H'ers for their projects."

The Molls will also be selling some animals at the Dutch County Calf Sale.

At the present April has a yearling bull for sale. "He's out of Highrise who was a national champion a couple of years back." Quality of this type doesn't come cheap. "It's not like breeding in the dairy business. If you wish to register the animal you have to buy a certificate along with the semen. Often the certificates alone cost $200," April explained.

Farming has always been a stressful occupation. April has a support network that helps her to cope. "It was really difficult when the girls were young. The neighbors probably think we've got six kids because I spent so many years riding around on the tractor pregnant. I remember putting a pan of tomato sauce on the stove, running out to the tractor, going around the field once, and running back in the house to check on the kids and stir the sauce. It was crazy. Finally a group of us farm women starting having lunch together once in a while on rainy days. Nothing fancy but it gave us a chance to air out feelings and frustration. At our last lunch we went to the Reading Fair to watch a show and eat sausage sandwiches."

The neighbors, Warren and Marvin Teter, also pitch in when the Molls need help. Warren is a retired carpenter and he has our overflow Holsteins right now. We buy crops for Marvin. I do the routine maintenance on the farm machinery but Eckroth's is always there when I need them," she added.

According to Moll, there are plenty of female farmers. "Women who farm aren't really rare. It's just you don't see as much of us because we're home farming. There are many women who never miss a milking and some who farm truly farm alone."

Frank's busy schedule precludes him doing a lot of the manual labor but like many of her male counterparts, April does have one job she leaves to her spouse. "I hate paper work. Frank does the bookwork for me and I try to keep ahead of the registrations."

Winners of the largest annual cooking contest — the National Beef Cook-Off® — were announced last week in Bellevue, Wash. A total of $34,500 in prize money was awarded to 11 winners. The title "Best of Beef" and $15,000 went to Annette Erbeck of Mason, Ohio, for the following recipe.

Pacific Rim Beef Salad

Preparation time: 40 minutes
Marinating time: 2 to 4 hours
Cooking time: 16 to 20 minutes
2-pound boneless beef top sirloin steak, cut 1-½ inches thick
¼ cup soy sauce
¾ cup sugar, divided
1 tablespoon plus 1-½ teaspoons finely grated fresh ginger
3 large cloves garlic, minced
¼ cup vegetable oil, divided
1 pound fresh spinach, stems removed and torn into bite-size pieces
4 ounces fresh bean sprouts
6 center-cut thin red onion slices, separated into rings
¼ cup each catsup and rice wine vinegar
⅛ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
2 teaspoons Oriental dark-roasted sesame oil
1 tablespoon sesame seeds, toasted*
Fresh enoki mushrooms or button mushrooms
Cherry tomatoes

Trim excess fat from boncless beef top sirloin steak. Combine soy sauce, ½ cup sugar, ginger and garlic, stirring to dissolve sugar. Place steak and marinade in plastic bag, turning to coat. Close bag securely and marinate in refrigerator 2 to 4 hours, turning occasionally. Remove steak from marinade; pat dry with paper towels. Reserve 2 tablespoons marinade; discard remaining marinade. Heat 2 tablespoons vegetable oil in large heavy frying pan over medium-high heat until hot. Add steak and sear 4 to 6 minutes, turning once. Reduce heat to medium. Continue cooking 10 to 12 minutes or until steak is rare (140°F) to medium-rare (150°F) or to desired doneness, turning once. Let steak stand 10 minutes before carving. Meanwhile combine spinach, bean sprouts and onion in large bowl. Combine catsup, vinegar, pepper sauce, remaining ¼ cup sugar, remaining 2 tablespoons vegetable oil and reserved 2 tablespoons marinade in small saucepan. Carve steak into thin slices. Bring dressing to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; stir in sesame oil. Pour hot dressing over spinach mixture and toss. Place spinach mixture on platter. Arrange beef on top of salad; sprinkle with sesame seeds. Garnish with mushrooms and cherry tomatoes. 6 servings.

* To toast sesame seeds: Heat sesame seeds in small pan over medium heat until golden, stirring constantly.

Fruit Juice, Dieting

Fruit Juice and Dieting— It is well known that eating sweets before meals can spoil one's appetite, but it is not so well known that the various types of sugar behave differently in this regard. Research at Yale University, the American Journal of Clinical Nutrition, (51:428, 1990) reports, show that fructose, the natural sugar of fruit, is 2 to 3 times more active as an appetite suppressant than glucose, when the sugars are given in amounts that provide an equal number of calories. About 40 minutes before lunch, a group of people drank a glass of one of four different drinks (plain water, lemonade containing the artificial sweetener, aspartame, or lemonade sweetened with either glucose or fructose). During the subsequent meal, they were told to eat until they they felt "comfortable full." Those who had taken the glucose-sweetened drink ate 10-15% fewer calories than those who took plain water or the asparatame-sweetened drink. However, those who took the fructose-sweetened drink consumed 20-40% fewer calories. This experiment was repeated many times over a period of several months to ensure that every person involved received each type of pre-meal drink. The result, nevertheless, was always the same. So, if you want to lose weight, but have difficulty in curbing your appetite, you might wish to try drinking some fruit juice sweetened with fructose about three quarters of an hour before meals.

Kids Part Of The Action At Ephrata Fair

ANDY ANDREWS
Lancaster Farming Staff

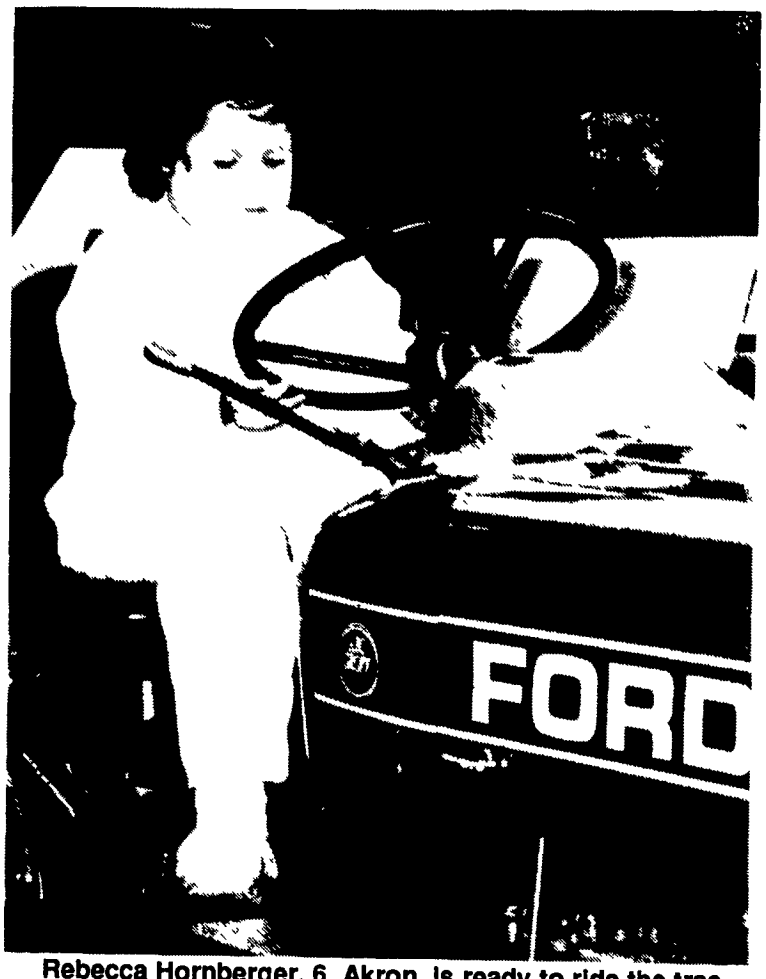
EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — Engines gunning, they were the meanest, the cleanest, the strongest. . . .

But when it was over, only a few great kids who could drag and tug a hitched load the longest stretch at the Ephrata Fair tractor pulls last week were the winners.

Out of about a dozen participants, Dennis Gilbert grabbed first place in the 900-pound lawn and 1,000-pound stock classes ages 14 and over. He also came in second place 1,200-pound stock and 800-pound lawn classes.

Many of the rest of the kids who couldn't pull the tractor spent time looking at the farm exhibits nearby at the Ephrata Park.

A list of results from the fair follows.



Rebecca Hornberger, 6, Akron, is ready to ride the tractor, if only she could reach the peddle. . . .

John Weaver, 13, Cocalico, is at the head of the line at weigh-in for the great Ephrata Fair tractor pulls last week at the Ephrata Park.

If only they could take us on a ride through the Ephrata Fairgrounds . . . Nathan Weaver, 3, Ephrata, waits for the wagon to pull out and away, while Josh Pierce, 8, looks over.

MICROWAVE MINUTES

By JOYCE BATTCHER

Ask any cook and she or he will tell you that ground meat is tops for convenience. Ask a microwave cook and she or he will probably say a favorite quick microwave main dish starts with ground meat.

Three readers sent favorite recipes recently and each one started with ground beef. Each was ready for eating in about 15 minutes.

Ruth's Hurry-up Casserole comes from a reader in Rochester, Minn. She calls it a "cooking with your hat on" recipe -- the kind you use when you need an instant meal. She says it was an old favorite that she changed to microwave. She likes to use the Ground Meat Cooker -- a clear, microwave-safe, plastic pie-plate-shaped dish with small holes -- to conveniently drain off fat as the meat cooks. (To order, see information after recipe.)

"If I'm really pressed for time, I heat the canned ingredients in the electric fry pan while the meat is cooking," Ruth says. "This is good with a green salad and rolls and is even better reheated."

The second recipe comes from a reader in Ephrata, PA, who used a past "Microwave Minutes" recipe for barbecue hamburgers when she wanted to use up some leftover cooked rice. She layered the rice with leftover hamburger mixture and grated cheese. She says it was delicious. I tried it, agree with Esther, and hope you do too.

The third recipe comes from a friend in Gaylord, MN, who likes this quick pizza-flavored main dish calling for ground beef, store-bought spaghetti sauce and plentiful potatoes. It's a suprefast way to make a main dish out of leftover cooked potatoes or a fast (about 30 minutes' cooking time) main dish made with micro-baked potatoes.

Each recipe starts with a pound of ground beef. I prefer using lean because often there's no need to drain fat (and the other flavorful juices that go along with it) away. You could also use ground turkey, chicken or pork.

Cover ground meat with waxed paper or a paper towel or leave it uncovered during cooking. Stir once or twice to break up meat as it cooks. Cook until pinkness disappears.

If ground meat is frozen, thaw and cook it in one easy operation. Just unwrap meat and put in a microwavable dish. Microwave it on High for four to five minutes. Break it apart with a fork and add any seasonings called for in the recipe. Then microwave five to six minutes more or until it's cooked.

Ruth's Hurry-up Casserole

1 pound lean ground beef
1 can (14 ounces) spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese
1 can (15 ounces) red kidney beans, partially drained
1 can (16 ounces) mixed vegetables, drained

Place ground beef in a Microwave Ground Meat Cooker* or microwavable colander and set in a microwavable 3-quart casserole. With a fork, break apart beef. Microwave (High) 5 to 6 minutes, stirring every 1½ to 2 minutes, or until beef is no longer pink. Discard fat. In same casserole, stir together the spaghetti, kidney beans and vegetables. Add the cooked beef and mix well. Cover with lid or waxed paper and microwave (High) 5 to 7 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Each serving- 1/6 of recipe: 296 calories, 21g protein, 12g fat, 28g carbohydrate, 383mg sodium, 50mg cholesterol.

Variation: Sprinkle ground beef with onion powder and black pepper or garlic powder and chili powder.

*If you can't find the Microwave Ground Meat Cooker in your favorite store, you can order from me. Send a check or money order for $8.25 ($6.50 plus postage) to Joyce Battcher, 4416 30th Ave. S., Minneapolis, MN 55406.

Esther's Easy Hamburger-Rice Hot Dish

1 pound lean ground beef
3 tablespoons instant minced onion or ¾ cup finely chopped fresh onion
1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup
⅓ cup spicy barbecue sauce
Salt and pepper to taste
3 cups cooked rice
1 cup shredded cheese

Place ground beef in a microwavable 2-quart casserole. (Or use Microwave Ground Meat Cooker -- see above -- set in the casserole.) With a fork, break apart beef; add onion. Microwave (High) 3 minutes. Stir and break up large clumps of meat. Continue microwaving (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until beef is no longer pink. Drain fat, if desired. Stir in undiluted soup and barbecue sauce. Add salt and pepper to taste. Cover with casserole lid or waxed paper. Microwave (High) 8 to 10 minutes or until hot. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Each serving- 1/6 of recipe: 252 calories, 16g protein, 6g fat, 19g carbohydrate, 565mg sodium, 49mg cholesterol.

Variation: Serv in warm flour or corn tortillas, topped with chopped tomatoes, chopped onion, shredded lettuce and shredded cheese. Makes about 12 servings.

Pizza-Flavored Potato Casserole

3 large or 4 medium cooked potatoes, cut crosswise into ¼-inch-thick slices
1 pound lean ground beef
3 tablespoons instant minced onion or ¾ cup finely chopped fresh onion
Garlic powder (optional)
1 can (4 ounces) mushrooms, drained
2 cups thick spaghetti sauce
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
1 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese

Place ground beef in a microwavable 2-quart casserole. (Or use Microwave Ground Meat Cooker -- see above -- set in the casserole.) With a fork, break apart beef; add onion. Microwave (High) 3 minutes. Stir and break up large clumps of meat. Continue microwaving (High) 2 to 3 minutes or until beef is no longer pink. Drain fat, if desired. Stir together the beef, garlic powder, mushrooms and spaghetti sauce.

Place potato slices in single layer in a microwavable 8x8-inch dish. Top with beef and sauce mixture. Sprinkle evenly with grated Parmesan cheese, then with Mozzarella cheese. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave (High) 7 to 9 minutes or until sauce is bubbly and cheese melted. Let stand about 5 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 main-dish servings.

With uncooked potatoes: Pierce each potato in two spots. Arrange in microwave in a circle with the center open. Microwave (High) 15 to 18 minutes, turning potatoes over halfway through cooking, or until almost done. Let stand until easy to handle. While potatoes stand, microwave ground beef. Assemble and microwave as above, allowing about 5 to 7 minutes.

Each serving- 1/6 of recipe: 333 calories, 26g protein, 17g fat, 20g carbohydrate, 184mg sodium, 71mg cholesterol.

Q. I like my microwave, but I always end up with dry food. What can I do differently?

A. Most microwave recipes give a time variation, such as microwave for 4 to 5 minutes. Be sure you always cook the least amount of time. You can always add more time, but you can't "uncook" something. Also, if you are cooking less food than the recipe calls for, be sure to use less cooking time. Allow for standing time because food continues to cook once the microwave is shut off. Cook food until it is just about done. Let it stand as the recipe states, and then if it isn't done, add more cooking time in short intervals.

Recipes in this column are tested in 600- and 650-watt microwave ovens. With an oven of different wattage output, timings may need slight adjustment.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

The other Sunday my husband and I took a bus tour to Virginia. We were surprised to find that we knew three other couples traveling with us.

In the morning our group and some others took a 90-minute barge ride. The ride on the Potomac Canal just a few miles from Washington, D.C. was quite interesting. A brass horn blown by a man in period costume, piped music while we boarded. He entertained us with history of the canal whose construction was started in 1786.

The barge with its 100 occupants only needed 18-inches of water to float through a wooded area. After being lifted eight-feet in a canal lock, we were pulled slowly upstream by two sleek, black mules.

The tow path was also used by many hikers and bicyclers. Families with children and dogs were seen all along the path. Allen and I ate the lunch we'd packed while sitting on a grassy plot in Great Falls Park.

Then we drove from the Maryland side of the river to the Virginia side. Here we saw a slide show and then proceeded to take a long walk with a park ranger as our guide. He told us that George Washington was intent on opening a route to the Ohio River. However the expense of building five locks, as the river drops nearly 80 feet in less than a mile, was very great and it could only be used a month or two in the year and so the project failed.

There were two overlooks which gave us a wonderful view of the Great Falls of the Potomac. Children scrambled over the large rocks near the deep channel and worried me as signs everywhere warned that an average of seven drownings took place each year. I would not have allowed my children to do that.

Chicken Popular With Fair Goers

What's the best thing to eat at the fair? Chicken breast sandwiches topped the list when an on-the-spot survey at the Ephrata Fair was taken. Don Pary, left, of Lancaster ordered one from the Lancaster County Poultry Association stand where members (from second left) Tom Patano, Shirley High, Deb Howe, and Bev Ginder, alternate Lancaster County poulty queen, made the popular sandwiches.

By the end of the fair, the association had sold 630 pounds of chicken breast, 180 pounds turkey barbecue, 200 gallons of chicken corn soup that had 425 pounds of chicken in it.

Apple Dumplings Help Disaster Victims

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — When natural disaster strikes, apples come to the rescue — indirectly that is — through the Brethren Disaster Relief Auction.

Among the hundreds of items sold to raise money at the annual relief auction, one of the crowd's favorites for the past 12 years is apple dumplings.

Members of the Chiques Church of the Brethren started the project as their contribution to the relief fund in 1978. That first year they made about 650 dumplings. This year the church members made 2,750, "which are sold as fast as they hit the stand," said a spokesperson for the event.

After the apples were purchased, this year's profits netted about $1,600. The profit is not without lots of volunteer help. Although many of the same persons help from year to year, some, such as Martha Weber who first took charge of the dumpling making, are now retired. This year, Carol Hess, Lois Moyer, and Judy Strickler planned the annual apple dumpling making.

The committee gathered the supplies, many of which are donated.

Then 30 persons met at Mastersonville Fire Hall on the Friday night before the sale to sort, wash, peel and core the apples. Unlike the beginning days when everything was done by hand, the volunteers now have six mechanical apple peelers and four mechanical apple corers designed by a local person to do the job.

The apples are patted dry with paper towels, which prevents darkening, and covered overnight. The following morning, at 4:30 a.m., 45 people gathered at the fire hall to make the apple dumplings.

With assembly-line precision, the dough is mixed, rolled, and wrapped around each apple. After being sprinkled with sugar and cinnamon, the dumplings are placed in a rotating oven that can bake 360 at a time. Workers then transferred the dumplings to smaller trays and transport them to the sale, where they are sold as quickly as they hit the stands.

In addition to 2,750 apples, the following ingredients were used to prepare the dumplings: 340 pounds flour, 31 pounds sugar, 3 pounds salt, 6½ pounds baking powder, 37½ cans shortening, 6 pounds butter, 7 ounces cinnamon, and 14½ gallons milk.

From year to year, the committee experiments with different varieties of applies. This year Ida Red apples were used with excellent results according to Judy Strickler. The same recipe is always used.

Forty-five persons showed up as early as 4:30 a.m. to help make apple dumplings. Front, from left: Ruth Wolgemuth, Joyce Lowe, and Mae Hosler.

Judy said the recipe appears in the church's Century of Fellowship Cookbook. The 375-page cookbook can be purchased for $9, which covers shipping charges, by sending a check to Judy Strickler, 607 Evans Road, Lititz, PA 17543. Proceeds for the cookbook go to the food program in Haiti.

The Brethren Relief Auction held on September 22, netted $310,000 to be distributed worldwide to victims of natural disaster.

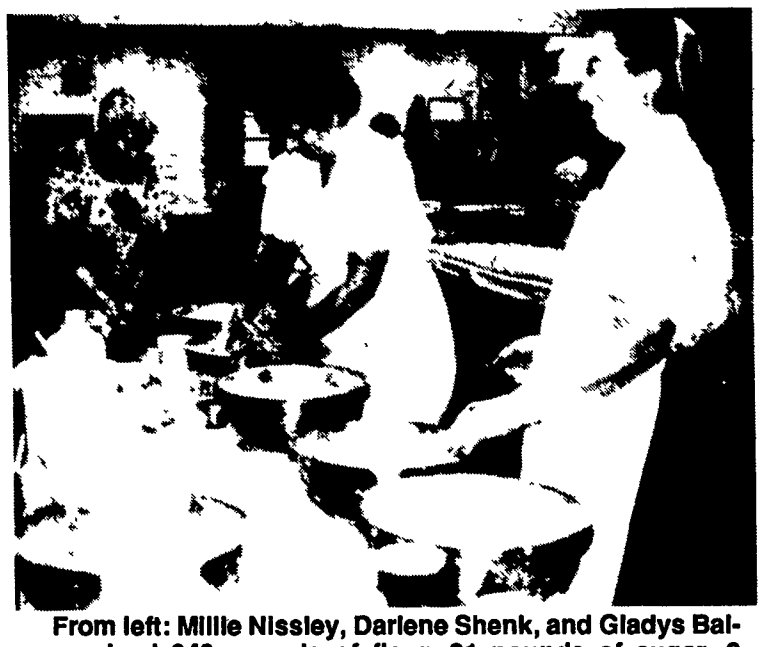
As of this writing, this year's proceeds have not been designated. Most of last year's proceeds went to victims of Hurricane Hugo.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

4 cups flour
2 heaping teapoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons sugar
1⅓ cup shortening
1⅓ cup milk
12 apples, pared and cored

Combine all ingredients except apples. Prepare pastry and roll ⅛ -inch thick on floured surface. Cut into 5-inch pie-shaped wedge and wrap dough around apple. Brush with melted butter; sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon. Bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

Barb Hoover transferred the apple dumplings to smaller trays. The dumplings sold at the auction for $1 a piece.



From left: Millie Nissley, Darlene Shenk, and Gladys Balmer mixed 340 pounds of flour, 31 pounds of sugar, 3 pounds of salt, 6½ pounds of baking powder, and 37½ cans of shortening to prepare the dough.

Galen Shelly transferred the trays from the oven to the tables to cool.

Channing Strom made a trip home from State College to help with the annual apple dumpling making.

The Centre County Junior Livestock Committee conducts the annual sale with Penns Valley Livestock Auction personnel taking the bids. It is sponsored by Penn State Extension and the Bellefonte, Penns Valley and State College High School Vo-Ag departments.

Food Editors Beef Up On News At Seminar

Consumers today have a world of foods available to them. That's good news and bad news for food editors. While it means a tremendous number of possible story ideas, it also means finding editorial space for all of them.

This can spell bad news for the beef industry. Most food editors have come to believe that beef is a "known" product, and needs little additional exposure. As a result, the industry has had to demonstrate to food editors that today's beef product is different — leaner and healthier — and people who love to eat need this new information.

A seminar for food editors in Bellevue, Wash., did just that Sept. 20 & 21. The seminar, titled, "Beef News," provided editors with information demonstrating that beef is a newsworthy food.

Participating in the seminar were some of the top food experts in the country. That fact — and the opportunity to cover the National Beef Cook-Off®, held in Bellevue Sept. 20-22 -- boosted participation to more than 80 food editors.

Weight Watchers, Better Homes and Gardens, Ladies Home Journal, Woman's Day Delicious Meals In Minutes, and Woman's Day magazines all recently ran positive stories about beef. The Woman's Day story featured Polly Owen, Beef Industry Council chairman, rancher and mother of two burger lovers. The story also included juicy secrets from Owen and three other beef lovers on "how to make and top this favorite American food."

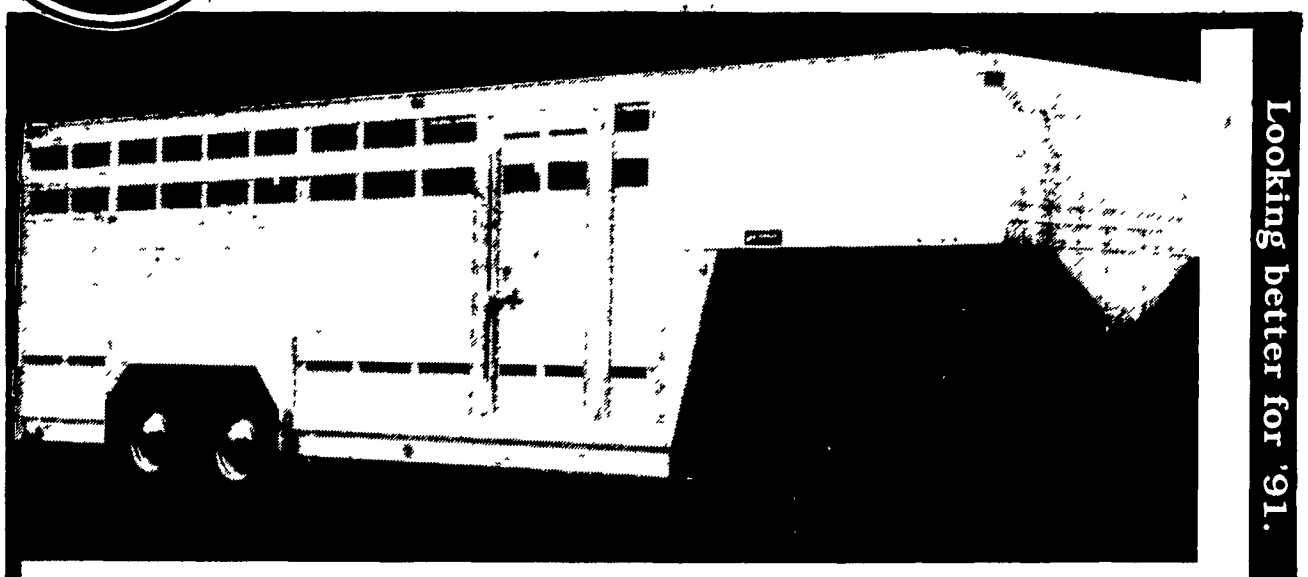
EBY BLUE BALL, PA

INTRODUCING THE REDESIGNED

WRANGLER



OUR BEST VALUE TRAILER JUST GOT BETTER.

The new Wrangler. More aerodynamic. Better looking. And the strongest Wrangler yet. With top-quality components and rugged construction, this Wrangler is the best trailer value you can find.

- LIGHTWEIGHT- Eby stock trailers are 25-35% lighter than comparable steel trailers. Less weight means better fuel mileage or increased payload.
- MAINTENANCE- Eby aluminum trailers won't rust. Welding and painting can cost you dollars in down time and repairs.
- DURABILITY- Eby trailers are built tough. Quality components and 6061 alloy aluminum provide the ruggedness required in a livestock trailer.

Got Grain? Then get the trailer that is Timpte tough...the Super Hopper. It's not only built to take it...it's also built to cut fuel costs. The Super Hopper is lightweight and aerodynamically designed to reduce wing drag. When there's grain to be hauled, Timpte does the haulin' best and pulls a lot easier than the rest.

County Entries Take York Fair FFA Awards

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — York County FFA members participated in a variety of competitions at the York Fair, splitting awards among representatives of four chapters.

The lion's share of awards in the sheep classes went to John Eaton, Jr., Red Lion FFA chapter. Eaton took all champion honors in both the Cheviot and Dorset breed shows, exhibited the champion market lamb, and was selected champion fitter and showman.

David Myers, Northern chapter, exhibited the Hampshire breed champion and reserve grand market lamb. Reserve champion Hampshire was the entry of Travis Hartman, Dover FFA.

Beef show honors were divided by Ed Livingston, Dover, exhibiting the champion steer, and Dan Graham, Red Lion, in the reserve grand spot. Livingston was also named champion fitter and showman.

Swine competition was dominated by Red Lion chapter's Gus Parlett. Parlett took all champion honors in Chester White, Duroc, and Spotted Hog classes. Landrace honors went to Dwight Hedrick, Kennard-Dale chapter.

Market hog championship went to Gus Parlett, over reserve champion winner Tim Rineholt, Kennard-Dale FFA. Champion swine fitter was John Eaton, Jr., Red Lion chapter, and champion showman was Joshua Hoffman, Dover chapter.

Paul Rauhauser, Dover chapter, exhibited all champions in both the Guernsey and Jersey dairy shows. Holsteins honors all went to Kim Griffith, Kennard-Dale FFA.

4-H tomorrow's leaders in agriculture

4-H reaches young people across the nation, offering them an opportunity to contribute to their community as they develop independence, awareness and responsibility. With subjects like livestock, plants and soil, energy, ecology and jobs and careers, boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19 partake in activities and projects aimed at promoting creativity and personal growth. Their 4-H experience provides a foundation of strong ideals to live by as they become our next generation of adults. It's an important organization... one that we heartily support and proudly salute.

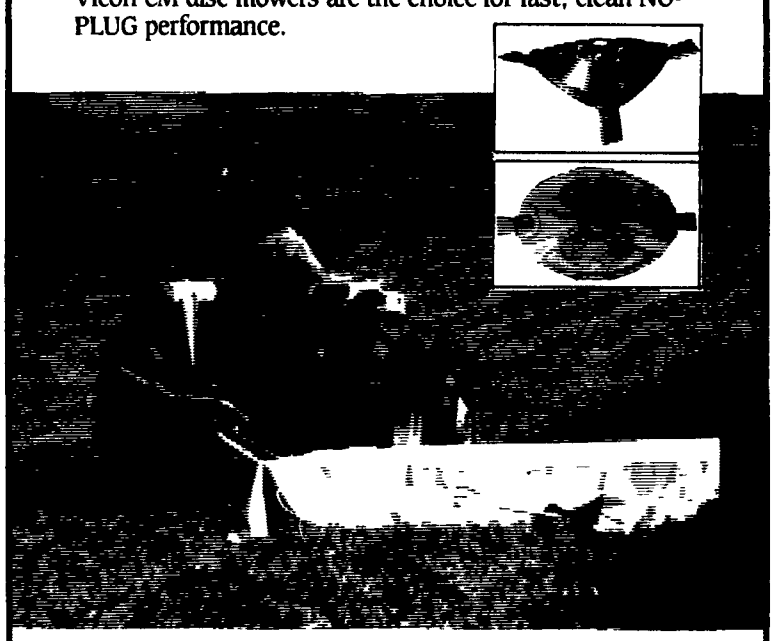
GET THE EXTRA EDGE

Put a Vicon three-bladed disc mower through wet, tangled crops – even fire ant hills – and then compare the difference.

With almost double the number of cuts per minute over two-bladed competitors, and the extra suction created by Vicon's unique triangular discs, it's easy to see why Vicon CM disc mowers are the choice for fast, clean NO-PLUG performance.



Rugged, low profile cutterbars in 5'6", 6'9" and 7'10" widths, reversible blades and heavy duty discs, deliver reliability and capacity when time is tight.

Vicon's got the edge. The extra edge.

Pork Checkoffs Fund Orient Promotions

DES MONIES, Iowa — Consumer perceptions about pork are showing a dramatic improvement according to the latest phase of a study that tracks the effectiveness of the checkoff-funded "Pork-The Other White Meat®" advertising campaign.

The study, conducted by Rozmarin and Associates, an independent research firm, reports outstanding improvements have been made in pork's consumer image perception index as far as cholesterol and calories are concerned.

In 1987, when the "Pork-The Other White Meat" campaign began, consumers rated pork -40 in calories and -41 in cholesterol level, slightly lower than beef in both categories. In an update of the study this year, consumers rated pork -11 for calories and -9 for cholesterol, while beef recorded little to no improvement. The research methodology used when calculating the consumer perception index identifies zero as being neutral.

The latest study also reveals that the total awareness of pork as a white meat is now as high as 92 percent in those markets where checkoff-funded television advertising has been used the more frequently, and 83 percent in those markets with normal television exposure. Before the campaign started, only about 20 percent of consumers in those same markets could identify pork as a white meat.

"While we have still have a ways to go, we have made great progress in convincing consumers that today's pork fits well into a balanced, healthful diet," said National Pork Board President Hilman Schroeder, a pork producer from Sauk City, WI.

Producer funded pork advertising can be found in 41 television markets and 21 consumer magazines this year, all targeted at women between the ages of 25-54. Sixteen of those 41 television markets are being funded with additional checkoff dollars provided by state pork producer associations.

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Has A Case IH Magnum for You! Call Or Stop In Soon!

After three years, nothing matches the MAGNUM® warranty.

READY FOR DEMO.
7110-130 HP
7120-150 HP
7130-170 HP

Five years or 5000 hours. That's the coverage you get— at no extra charge—on every new MAGNUM tractor. In fact, it's the same warranty* that covers every MAGNUM tractor ever built.

And, while the competition offers an occasional free warranty, they haven't put it on every tractor. Besides, only MAGNUM's 5-year/5000-hour warranty can be fully transferred without a fee. That gives the MAGNUM tractor's already high resale value another boost. And it gives you another good reason to buy.

But what makes MAGNUM tractors even more attractive are the special buyer incentives we're offering this fall. Ask us about low-rate financing, waiver-of-financing or cash discounts in lieu of special financing. Offers too good to ignore.

See us today about an on-farm demonstration. Once you work a MAGNUM tractor, you'll be convinced. Because no tractor beats a MAGNUM.

*Excluding tires, which are covered by their own manufacturers' warranties A $200 deductible applies to each repair after the first year

Double up to finish in half the time!

Case International 5100 Drill with Hydraulic Two-Drill Hitch

The field-proven 5100 Drill, unequalled for precise seeding, with hydraulic two-drill attachment, lets you double your capacity. Save valuable time and fuel. Hydraulics let you go from transport to working position and back without leaving your tractor seat. The 5100 Drill features feed cups with fluted rolls, large throat clearance, and exclusive tapered metering edge. Big-capacity plain or combination hoppers. Seed delivery is to the front of the openers allowing for more accurate seed placement and permits faster seeding speeds. And a new optional hydraulic marker system saves seed by reducing overlaps and skips.

This twin 20 hp is becoming very popular for hay balers and other applications traditionally equipped with 2 cylinder Wisc. engines and can also replace the older 4 cylinder engines on some applications.

Works very well to run corn pickers, crimpers and mower crimper units. We can mount your Wisc. clutch reduction for $1495 or sell the engine with used Wisc. reduction for $1995. Price includes picking up your clutch and delivery of completed unit for you. (Lancaster County Only)

We Only Have A Limited Amount Of These Engines Available w/Reduction

TORQUE AMPLIFIERS & CLUTCHES

★ New Wider Heavy Duty Super Sprag 1-1/32" Wide
★ 5 Yr. Warranty Against Sprag Failure
★ Introductory Price $695.00

We are pleased to announce a major improvement in TA strength & performance backed up by a warranty that is unmatched in the industry. The 5/8" width Dana sprag which we have used over the past 10 years has proven its ability to perform under the most adverse of conditions and has achieved results that have sent our competitors scrambling to keep up. By increasing the width of the sprag to 1-1/32" and caging it in a heavier frame, we now have an unmatched shock load capacity and dramatically raised our load carrying ability. Our studies have shown that 90% of TA problems are directly related to sprag failure. We feel that we now have the strongest sprag & best rebuilt TA available and it will be warranted as follows:

*5 yr. - 100% parts & labor against sprag
*2 yr. - 100% parts & labor on remainder of unit
Our standard heavy duty TA is still available at $645.00 and carries a *2 yr. - 100% parts & labor warranty.
*Certain restrictions apply and there will be a maximum labor pay-out of $450.00.
We also have units & parts available to rebuild old style TA's, including ramp & carrier sets.
NEW price on ramps & carries - $200.00

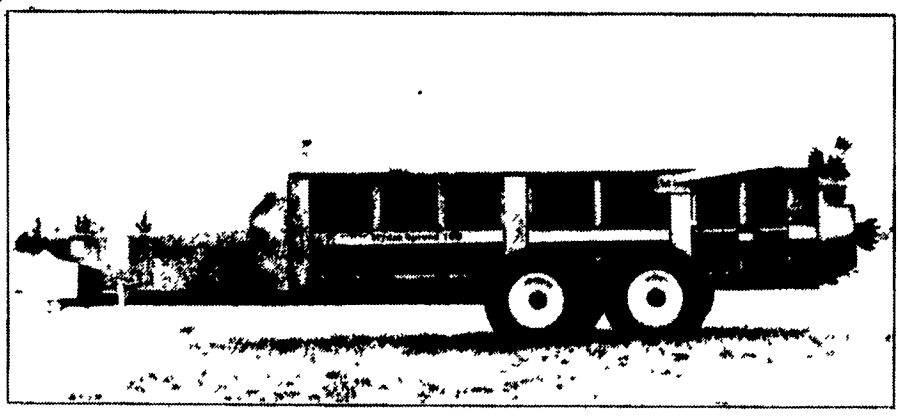
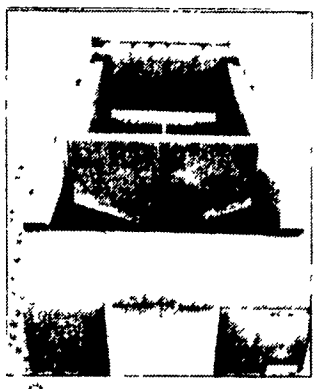
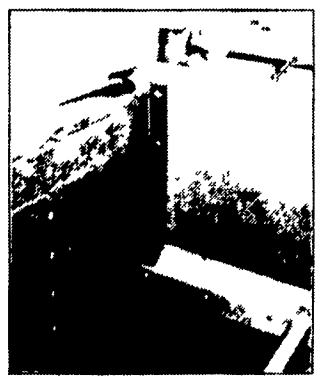
HYDRA-SPREAD

The simple and proven design of Hydra-Spread uses reliable hydraulic power to push the load. This feature eliminates troublesome apron chains, gearbox, shafts, and sprockets and replaces them with a simple, dependable, hydraulic cylinder assembly. Sides and floor of the Hydra-Spread are made from super-slippery, corrosion-proof, high density polyethylene. The rugged efficient beater design delivers a fine uniform spread pattern. The all-welded unit frame features heavy structural sections for long life.





Hydra-spread unloads smoothly and evenly, with a simple, dependable, hydraulic push-gate



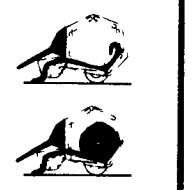
Floor and sides are constructed from solid, corrosion-proof poly-boards

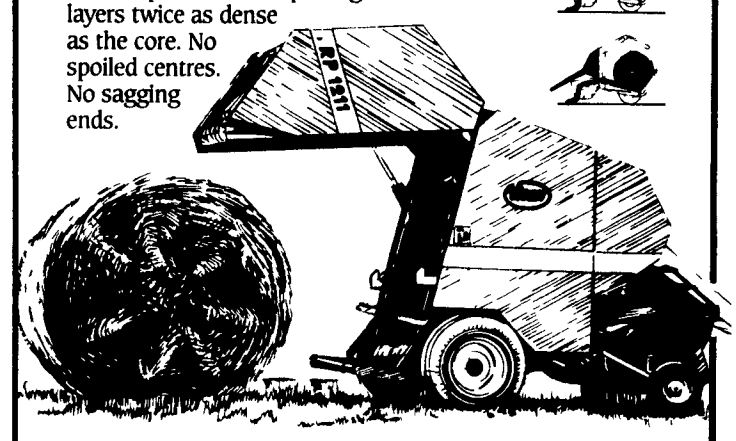
HYDRAULIC PUSH GATE TYPE MANURE SPREADER

INSTANT START QUALITY FINISH

Building perfect round bales weighing up to 1200 lbs. with Vicon's RP 1211M baler has never been easier. A new, fast working four bar pick-up pivots on the front roller, less than four inches from the fixed chamber belts, speeding crop delivery WITHOUT PLUGGING. The wide open feed inlet and lightly textured belts make an unbeatable combination for fast, easy bale starts in virtually any crop, in any conditions.

No chains or bars rough handle your feed. Belts cover 89% of the bale chamber to limit leaf loss when the crop is gently compacted into a smooth, weatherproof 4' x 5' package with outer layers twice as dense as the core. No spoiled centres. No sagging ends.





A new streamlined bale density system eliminates hydraulic valves and pre-charged door cylinders. Side-to-side density is monitored from the tractor seat on easy to see indicators. When the bale is ready, an automatic twine tying system binds material tightly in a double spiral pattern that leaves only one cut end in the middle. Every bale is tied exactly the same and rolled clear, without reversing, with the standard bale kicker.

Vicon's RP 1211M. Trouble-free baling, right from the start.

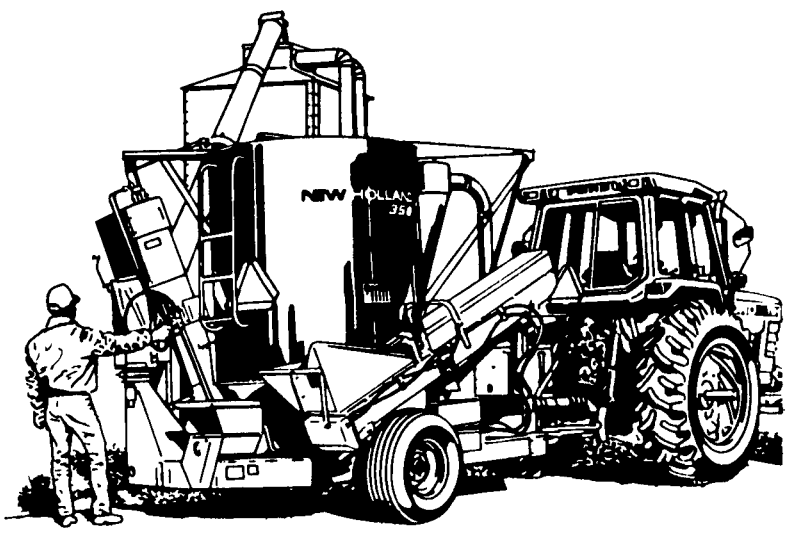
Not just a slurry spreader

The New Holland Model 308 hauls a variety of manures . . . from the sloppy stuff . . . to free-stall . . . gutter . . . poultry . . and pen-packed manure Hydraulically controlled spreading lets you lay down the precise application you want. The tank has a ten-ton capacity and a ten-year warranty against rust-through. We've got a "308" with your name on it



First in durability

Surveys show owners rate New Holland grinder-mixers as the most durable That's because Ford New Holland builds them right and backs them with quality parts and service. The Model 358 has a 125-bushel tank that's specially designed to eliminate bridging An optional electronic scale assures accurate control of rations Stop in and see the durable Model 358 grinder-mixer.

Load...unload faster and easier

When you're working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage — extra reach. With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one size so you get an even load. The result: faster loading, fuller loads and easier unloading.
With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher... with less spillback. And, with a longer wheelbase there's more stability and safety. So, why get stuck with anything else?
Find out just how good a skid-steer loader can be.

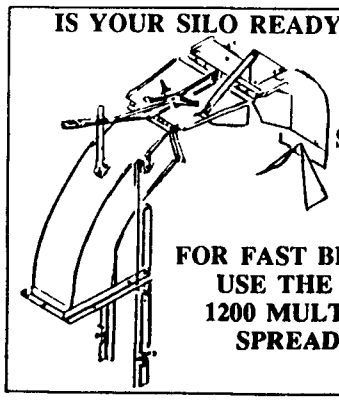
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

S & S Silo Serivce Has Experience
Over 700 Silos Have Been Relined With Shotcrete

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH GRASS SILAGE?



FOR FAST BLOWING USE THE NEW 1200 MULTI-FLO SPREADER!

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

FALL MANAGEMENT OF BEEF COWS

One of the most important — but often overlooked — periods of production for the beef herd is in the fall. There are several key production practices that should be conducted to insure the health and productivity of the herd.

Planning winter feeding

The most costly nutritional time for a cow herd is during winter, when almost all feed is supplemental, both economically and in production. It is time to evaluate the quantity and quality of winter forage and protein feeds to make the best and most economical use of these feeds.

Do you have enough feed on hand? To meet energy needs of the average 1,200-pound cow, it will take about 90 bales of a grass-legume hay between now and next May per cow. This takes into account the 30 percent increase in energy needed during early lactation.

Protein needs can be met by this hay during the next 3-4 months, but an additional protein source — either supplemental feed or from a high quality legume hay — will be needed for the following months. The additional protein needed would be an equivalent amount of 200 pounds of soybean meal per cow. A high quality legume hay provides about 40 percent more protein per day to the cow.

A lab test of the forage for protein and energy value would be of help, particularly when hay or silage is marginal in quality. For cows on corn silage rations, the energy needs can easily be met with 6 tons of corn silage per cow. If the silage is NPN treated, the protein needs can also be met. For untreated silage, the equivalent of 220-250 pounds of soybean meal will be needed for protein.

Remember the nutritional needs of the cow are distinctly different in early pregnancy than they are in early lactation, particularly for heavier-milking cows. Therefore, if the quality of the forage is different, feed the poorer quality feed first, and the higher quality feed at calving and thereafter.

Don't forget the value of stalk fields for beef cows in early pregnancy. One month of gleaning a stalk field is worth about a big bale of hay per cow. One of the costliest mistakes in beef cow nutrition is overfeeding in early lactation. Most spring-calving beef cows should already be bred in late fall, so the daily nutritional needs of these cows are at their lowest point of the year.

Pregnancy detection, deworming and vaccination

One of the best procedures available to the cow-calf operator to maintain an efficient, productive herd is pregnancy detection.

Many studies have shown cows that lose a calf or do not rebreed can never make up for this loss of production in their lifetime. "Giving her another chance" is a costly decision, particularly when calf prices are high.

When all costs are considered, it costs more than $300 to maintain a cow for a year. When a cow contributes nothing to the calf crop, that $300 must be added in to the costs for all other cows in the herd, thus reducing net returns.

The best way to eliminate the cost is to know the cow will not produce a calf and eliminate her from the herd.

Fall vaccinations and deworming can be administered at the time cows go through the chute for palpation. Vaccinations for IBR and PI3 are usually recommended, plus a 7-or 8-way clostridial product that includes tetanus. The latter product will help provide some passive immunity to the young calf.

Many producers also use a killed BVD vaccine at this time, and rabies vaccination may be necessary in many areas. Deworming will help cows effectively use winter feeds and keep their production at desired levels until going to grass in the spring. Grub and lice control, either as part of the dewormer or as a separate product, can also be used. Remember, grub control drugs should probably not be used after November 1 in Pennsylvania.

Condition scoring and herd separation

Not all of the cows in the herd will have the same nutritional needs in late fall and early winter. When it is impossible to separate the cow herd by age and nutritional status, the only approach is to feed all the cows at a level of the group with the greatest needs.

This would include heifers and thin cows. However, this process, or even "feeding on the average," can become very costly, either because more feed is used for some of the herd than is needed or because certain cows have reduced production because their needs have not been met.

If it is possible to separate the herd in late fall, the first group should include pregnant, yearling heifers. Their protein requirement is almost twice that of mature cows, and they need just as much daily energy. These differences are even more pronounced at calving.

Another group would be 3- and 4-year old cows that have just weaned a calf. Their needs for energy may be greater than the average cow in the herd to get them back into shape.

Finally, those mature cows in poor condition may need some additional feed. Pregnant cows must gain at least 100 pounds over the winter just from calf development. Thin cows (those with more than two ribs showing as a benchmark) will need additional feed to add sufficient weight for calf production and be ready to milk and rebreed the next spring. Many times the very thin cows and pregnant heifers can be maintained as a group.

Fall management of the cow herd will be an important component of profitability. A few practices at this time can make a large contribution to net returns.

Flushing Increases Litter Size In Gilts

Many producers increase the energy content of the ration prior to breeding (flushing) in hopes of increasing litter size. Does flushing really work?

A recent Kansas State University study examined the effect of flushing on ovulation rate and litter size in gilts. Thirty nine gilts were flushed with 3.4 pounds of ground milo in addition to a 4-pound basal diet for two weeks prior to breeding. Forty-two more gilts were fed just the 4-pound basal diet. All gilts were bred on the first heat after the start of the trial and then classified as to whether they were bred on the first of subsequent heats.

Flushed gilts bred on the first heat ovulated more eggs (14.4 vs 13.3) and farrowed larger litters (9.4 vs. 8.3) than gilts that weren't flushed. Flushing had no significant effect on ovulation rates or litter size in gilts bred on their second or subsequent heats, although ovulation rates tended to be higher.

IDEAL WEIGHTS ESSENTIAL TO CHOOSING CHAMPION

Once again I've had the opportunity to judge livestock shows at summer fairs.

Along with this privilege comes responsibility. I can't tell you how many times over the past five years that champion animals at fairs I've attended have been outside the weight range accepted by the livestock industry. This gives junior exhibitors an unrealistic view of the business.

For today's hog industry, the ideal weight range desired by buyers at the major packing houses is 225 to 245 pounds. Of course, depending on the year and current market conditions, variations outside of this range exist. Generally, however, no packing house wants pigs below 210 pounds or hogs weighing more than 250 pounds.

As a judge, I have a responsibility to keep my champions within the weight ranges set by the industry. This is not to say there are no outstanding animals outside of the ideal weight range, but I think a champion should fall within the standards for the industry.

Most of the fairs I attend also sponsor livestock auctions at which the junior project animals are sold to the highest bidder. Often these bidders are not hog buyers from packing plants. Some are bank representatives, restaurant owners, or people from similar businesses — they don't really care what weight the champion is. For those of us in the industry, however, can we in good conscious encourage young people, who are just learning about livestock, to grow animals outside the parameters of current standards?

My position doesn't mean that I'll place an outstanding animal lower in its class based on weight alone. An exceptional animal that by visual appraisal is the best within a class deserves first place. But the industry weight standard cannot be overlooked entirely in the selection process.

Some of the problems can be traced to the practices employed by the exhibitor. To grow a champion animal, you must consider several factors. First, if you are aiming for an ideal weight by a specific date, you can't just put a pig in a pen where it eats all it wants and grows as fast as it can. Limiting feed to attain a specific rate of growth is one way to reach the ideal weight range.

It should be an integral part of any livestock project that the animal be grown to the ideal weight for show day. My experiences as a judge have taught me that too many hogs have come to the fair weighing less than 200 or more than 250 pounds. Many of the underweight hogs would have been far more competitive if they had more weight and a few 300+ pound hogs would have done much better at a lower weight.

Livestock judges are far too inconsistent on this point. It is not realistic to expect all judges to place live animals the same. Ideally, if visual appraisal was as good an evaluation method as taking direct carcass measurements, for instance, judges would duplicate placings. However, the one area in which judges can be consistent is in choosing champions that are within the guidelines of the industry.

My decision to eliminate overweight hogs when judging champions has not been popular with some, but I am obligated to encourage youngsters to produce hogs in the most profitable way they can. Producers may have a hard time getting hogs to market at ideal weights, but junior exhibitors, who usually purchase outstanding animals to begin with, should be encouraged to grow them to ideal weights, not just as big as they can get.

Not all junior exhibitors end up in the swine industry, but some will. If we don't use the educational opportunity of the swine projects as a way of driving home profit-making practices within the industry, we are cheating the youngsters out of the real purpose of the project.

Both swine producers and livestock leaders need to work with the youngsters in these projects to educate them about why we raise hogs to specific weights. Let them know the financial advantages to raising animals to industry standards. Livestock judges, too, must be more aware in picking animals that fall into these ideal weight ranges as they select champions. Working together, we will be further on the way to ensuring a more knowledgeable future generation of hog producers.

NFO Dedicates New Headquarters

AMES, Iowa — The National Farmers Organization (NFO) will officially dedicate its new national headquarters here on October 7, 1990 at 1 p.m.

Among those invited to attend are Iowa Governor Terry Branstad, U.S. Senator Charles Grassley, U.S. Senator Tom Harkin, Congressman Neil Smith, and several state and city officials.

"Every industrial must have a center," said NFO President DeVon Woodland, a rancher from Blackfoot, Idaho. "For investments, it's Wall Street; for automobiles, it's Detroit; for insurance, it's Hartford; for agricultural marketing, with the presence of National Farmers Organization, it's Ames. We're proud to be located in Ames, Iowa, adding another service — marketing to the agricultural center of america.

The contemporary $3.5 million dollar building, partially funded by state and city economic development grants, was completed in late July. The relocation from Corning, Iowa to Ames was completed by July 30. With more than 37,000 square feet, the facility houses the organization's national operations, including livestock, dairy grain, and growth and maintenance departments; accounting; data processing; and communications. "We are pleased with the quality of staff found in the Ames area, highly professional, conscientious and a strong work ethic," Woodland said.

Jacques Releases New Seeds

PRESCOTT, Wis. — Jacques Seed Company introduced eight new products for Pennsylvania and New York producers for the 1991 growing season.

"Our product lineup just gets stronger every year," said Dr. Tom Burmood, Jacques vice president for research. "These new products have been specifically bred to match Pennsylvania and New York growing conditions. We simply won't release a new seed product unless it demonstrates superior performance over what farmers are already planting."

Corn Hybrids

4120- Type of cross: Single cross. Maturity: 93-day northern Corn Belt.

This showy hybrid ranked Number 1 of all Jacques 90-day hybrids for yields across the northern Corn Belt. Excellent seedling vigor, strong stalks, and very good tolerance to drought makes 4120 an excellent choice for light or heavy soils.

This moderately tall single cross has flex ears and good fall staygreen that make it a particularly attractive choice for silage producers.

4440- Type of cross: Single cross. Maturity: 96-day northern Corn Belt. 93-day central Corn Belt.

4440 has attractive leaf characteristics and low, girthy ear.

The medium-height plant with a moderately low, non-flex ear is rated excellent for fall drydown and has excellent root quality. The hybrid exhibits excellent response to irrigation but is also rated good for drought tolerance.

The new hybrid is also rated very good for seedling vigor.

4770- Type of cross: Single cross. Maturity: 100-day Minnesota.

This single cross is suited to Pennsylvania/New York growing conditions. Since its development, 4770 has consistently bettered the best hybrids within and beyond its maturity.

The moderately tall plant with high ear height and a semi-flex ear also possesses excellent root quality. The hybrid has very good seedling vigor and has a very good response rating to drought stress, as well.

4770 works best on loam soils with ample heat units.

5170- Type of cross: Single cross. Maturity: 105-day Minnesota.

Another particularly good product for the Pennsylvania/New York growing regions, this new, widely-adapted single cross has all the agronomic qualities top yielders need. Outstanding seedling vigor, tall leafy plants, strong silking and large, girthy ears are only a few of its characteristics. The moderately tall plant features a medium-height flex ear and excellent stalk strength.

The hybrid is suited to minimum tillage environments, will perform on a wide variety of soils, and can be an early or late hybrid for your area.

Soybean Varieties

J-033- Maturity: Mid-Group 0. Canopy type: Thin. Seed size: Small.

J-033 features a thin canopy that shows excellent adaptation to narrow rows or solid seeding. It displays very good emergence, strong early vigor, lodging resistance, and drought stress tolerance.

The variety demonstrates excellent shatter resistance and very good iron chlorosis tolerance. The medium-height plant has resistance to powdery mildew and moderate field tolerance to Phytophthora complex. The plant produces a white flower and black hilum color on the bean.

J-121- Maturity: Early Group I. Canopy type: Thin. Seed size: Medium.

This new early Group I variety displays excellent yield potential. The moderately short plants produce a thin canopy ideally suited for use in narrow rows or solid seeding.

J-121 shows very good seedling vigor and excellent standability and shatter resistance. The variety is resistant to powdery mildew and offers moderate field tolerance to phytophthora and brown stem rot.

The plants feature a purple flower and black hilum. High management environments will bring out the best in this maturity group yield leader.

J-245- Maturity: Mid-Group II. Canopy type: Medium. Seed size: Medium.

This new mid-Group II variety features yields to rival that of maturity leader J-231. J-245 displays excellent emergence, strong early vigor, and very good lodging resistance. The medium-height plant develops a medium canopy with excellent performance in all row widths.

The new variety has excellent shatter resistance, very good drought stress tolerance, moderate field tolerance to phytophthora, and good iron chlorosis tolerance. The plants also show resistance to powdery mildew and good tolerance to brown stem rot.

Flowers are white and the beans feature a gray/black hilum color.

J-285- Maturity: Late Group II. Canopy type: Medium. Seed size: Medium.

This late Group II variety is a perfect companion to J-282. It's a moderately short, medium-canopy type that performs best under high management situations.

Plants display very good seedling vigor, lodging resistance, shatter resistance, and tolerance to drought stress. Adaptation to narrow rows or solid seeding is rated as excellent.

J-285 shows good field tolerance to phytophthora and brown stem rot and resistance to powdery mildew. Plant flowers are white and hilum color of the bean is black.

High Speed Diesel Engines Expected

ATLANTA, Ga. — Deutz Corporation of Atlanta, Georgia, and Ruggerini Motori S.p.A. of Reggio Emilia, Italy, have reached an agreement of importance to Diesel engine users in North America.

Deutz will market, support and service a number of modern, high-speed models out of the Ruggerini product offering especially selected for the requirements of the North American market. This addition extends Deutz's range downward for substantially increased competitiveness in smaller engines.

Starting September 4th, 1990 Deutz will offer these engines, product support, engineering and application assistance. Deutz will also provide parts and service availability for Ruggerini engines already operating in North America.

These engines will be sold under the DEUTZ-RUGGERINI name.

Deutz Corporation is a subsidiary of KHD of Cologne, Germany, the oldest engine manufacturer in the world. U.S. sales last year surpassed the $100 million mark.

Handle Herbicides Safely With Field-Pak

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Growers with mid-size acreage can reap the benefits of handling bulk herbicides with Ciba-Geigy's new Field-Pak™.

Designed for grower safety and convenience, the Field-Pak package provides a safer method to handle herbicides in a dedicated, reusable tank that eliminates the need for small, disposable containers.

Field-Pak is modeled after Farm-Pak®, a Ciba-Geigy mini-bulk system with larger capacity that has been used by thousands of growers in the Midwest. Ciba-Geigy estimates that this packaging technology has eliminated more than one million metal and plastic chemical containers.

Dual®, Bicep® and Cycle® herbicides are available in the 60-gallon Field-Pak containers. That's enough Dual to treat 160 to 320 acres of corn, soybeans or sorghum, or enough Bicep to treat 80 to 160 acres of corn or sorghum, or enough Cycle to treat 60 to 75 acres of corn.

Improved applicator/grower safety is a key feature of the Field-Pak package. Paul Witter, a 160-acre corn grower in Shippensburg, Pa., used Field-Pak in a regional test market in 1990. He believes the mini-bulk makes handling herbicides much easier and safer to transport. "I used to worry about transporting my large (bulk) tank on the back of my truck — it seemed to be very top-heavy," Witter said. "But Field-Pak is really stable — it's a great improvement."

Witter also says convenience is a benefit. He feels good about being able to reuse the Field-Pak containers. Reusable systems are a direct solution for the problem of container disposal for chemicals packaged in plastic jugs or metal containers. The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) considers reusable bulk containers key to reducing the amount of waste being sent to landfills, a major problem in the Northeast.

Herbicides are easy to measure with Field-Pak. The digital meter is located on the end of the hose, rather than at the tank, so it's more convenient for growers to know how much Dual, Bicep, or Cycle they've put into a spray tank.

Another advantage is the low maintenance required for the equipment. Growers simply purchase their herbicide, use the Field-Pak, and return it to the dealer for maintenance and storage. Dealers can refill the containers with Dual, Bicep, or Cycle and use them again — for the same grower, or another grower, again the following year.

"The system is built to be refilled and used again and again — for about five years," said Jerry Maynard, Dual product manager. "The dealer takes care of the Field-Pak, so it's super convenient for growers." More than 300 Field-Pak units were tested by Pennsylvania and Maryland dealers and growers in 1990.

Included with each Field-Pak is 60 gallons of either Dual, Bicep or Cycle; a durable GPI piston pump; hose; and GPI electronic digital meter.

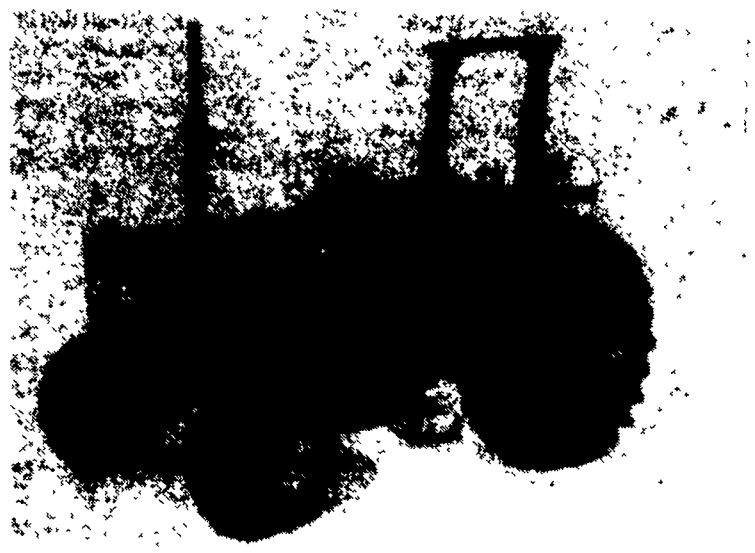
Tractor Has High Torque

DES MOINES, Iowa. — "Massey-Ferguson is introducing the new M-W 362 tractor for farmers that prefer a four-cylinder engine with higher torque in a mid-range horsepower tractor," said Wilfred Boyle, Massey-Ferguson product marketing manager.

The M-F 362 features a Perkins A4.236 four-cylinder diesel engine rated at 55 PTO horsepower. "This engine is smooth-running and efficient with plenty of reserve power," said Boyle, "and it develops over 22% torque backup to keep the M-F 362 moving where other tractors have to stop and shift."

A standard eight-speed manual transmission has eight forward working-speed ranges and two reverse. An optional eight-speed synchronized shuttle transmission has eight forward speed ranges and eight reverse speed ranges.

Forward/reverse shuttle shifts are synchronized for easier gear change without having to come to a complete stop and the shuttle transmission is ideal for utility and chore applications where there is a constant need to change from forward to reverse.



Massey-Ferguson's new entry into the utility tractor market is the M-F 362, with a four-cylinder 55 PTO Horsepower engine.

Standard features that add to the productivity of the M-F 362 tractor include hydrostatic steering, category 2 three-point hitch convertible to category 1, exclusive Ferguson system hydraulics, two auxiliary spool valves and auxiliary hydraulic pump, disc brake/planetary reduction rear axle for maximum braking effort with minimal driveline stress, and differential lock.

Checkoff Money Funds New Technology

DES MOINES, Iowa — This year, the National Pork Board allocated $200,000 in pork producer checkoff funds to help develop new technology and information programs in the meat science area to improve the marketing of pork products.

"The Pork Board's role in meat science research is to help develop new technologies and information sources that will encourage private industry to develop new and exciting consumer products," said Hilman Schroeder, National Pork Board president and Wisconsin pork producer.

Among the six checkoff-funded research projects aimed at providing new pork technology and information are studies of the effects of porcine somatatropin (PST) on pork quality, the effects of PST on the processing characteristics of pork, and a method to produce low-fat frankfurters.

Checkoff funds are also being used to develop and implement a new technological system that will allow food retailers to follow a pork cut from the moment it arrives in the store through the checkout counter. A food bar code and a numbering system for meat packages enables retailers to track how many retail cuts are packaged, what types of cuts are most popular, and how many cuts are sold, among other things. This product movement information allows retailers to do a better job of promoting and selling pork cuts.

Next year, pork industry merchandisers, using a computer software package called Direct Product Profitability, will be able to show food retailers the profitability of carrying a particular pork cut in their stores before any purchase is made. The software can project a retailer's actual "bottom line" profit when stocking a specified pork cut.

Checkoff-funded projects directed at distributing meat science information related to pork include publications such as "Lessons on Meat," a textbook that focuses on meat selection, cut identification, nutrition and other meat related topics. It is designed for use by college students who have food-related majors.

Another checkoff-funded publication, the "Pork Technical Reference Manual," is a guide to all known pork related meat science research, and includes the names of the people responsible for that research. It serves as a catalyst to help researchers, processors, and technical people with problems they encounter during their research and development of new pork technology.

Worksaver Drives In Posts

LITCHFIELD, Ill. — Worksaver, Inc. has engineered two post driver models, HPD-16 and HPD-20, that drive steel and wood posts and railroad ties into the ground in seconds.

Designed to handle all standard square or round post sizes, the post drivers fit Category I and II tractors with rear mount 3-pt hitch. The heavy-duty post drivers attach to the tractor and are powered by its hydraulic system. They provide up to 40 strokes per minute (depending upon the tractor's hydraulic capability) and dig a deep, smooth hole. One person can easily operate the post drivers effectively on hills or flat terrain.

Features include a guarded ram hammer plate that protects the operator from defective posts and sets posts without mushrooming the tops, level indicator, and crank adjustment for quick post alignment. Other features include chrome plated high tensile steel hydraulic cylinder rod and transport lock pin for road travel and storage.

Worksaver also manufactures an hydraulic fence maker, Model HFM-24, that installs or removes steel T-posts quickly and easily and a heavy duty model 706 post hole digger with red claw digger teeth that permits the digging of a smooth, deep hole almost anywhere.

For more information on Worksaver's fencing equipment contact Worksaver, Inc., P.O. Box 1000, Litchfield, IL 62056, (217) 324-5973.

ASPERGILLOSIS

Donald L. Singletary
Dept. of Veterinary Science

Aspergillosis is a respiratory disease that affects a large variety of birds and animals. It is caused by the fungus aspergillus fumigatus. Many poultrymen call the disease brooder pneumonia.

Recently we have seen several cases of aspergillosis here at the Penn State Poultry Diagnostic Laboratory involving turkey poults and game birds.

Concerned poultrymen frequently ask how their birds got the infection. The chicks or poults can be infected in two ways. First, they can be infected at the hatchery in the incubator. This happens when a moldy egg breaks in the incubator or if the hatchery sanitation program has missed cleaning an important area. Only in unusual circumstances is this the major source of the disease, however.

The most common source of the infection occurs when the chicks or poults are placed on poor quality, dusty, mold-laden litter. Straw, sawdust, and hardwood shavings are the types of litter usually involved in disease outbreaks.

Symptoms

The sign poultrymen notice first is difficult, labored breathing in their birds. The birds are dull and listless. They grow poorly and many culls and runts develop. Occasionally nervous signs and eye involvement may be seen.

Diagnosis

Aspergillosis is a disease the average poultryman with a little experience can diagnose himself. By opening some infected birds, the poultryman can soon recognize the tiny, pale yellow nodules in the lungs and the pale yellow cheesy discs on the air sacs that are characteristics of aspergillosis.

Treatment

Poultrymen, of course, want to know what can be done for the infected flock. While copper sulfate, gentian violet, propionic acids, etc. are used in the treatment of crop mycosis, these products are of no benefit in the treatment of brooder pneumonia. Thus, unfortunately, there is no treatment available that will cure an infected flock.

It is best to cull the sick birds because they will not grow as they should. However, some things can be done to reduce the spread of the infection from the litter to the birds. To reduce the airborne mold spores, the humidity in the poultry house should be increased by adjusting the ventilation.

Thus, the amount of infective dust will be reduced that will be inhaled by the birds. Also, the litter can be sprayed with a disinfectant and/or removed, particularly if a small house is involved.

Prevention

Because no treatment or vaccine is available for aspergillosis, this disease is best prevented by obtaining chicks or poults from a clean, well managed hatchery and by not using dusty, moldy litter such as straw or sawdust.

New M-F 300 Series Hiline Cab Tractors

"I thought cabs were a luxury. Now I know better."

When he stopped in at his M-F dealer last month to price a new utility tractor, Joe Bunson got a big surprise. His favorite tractors — the M-F 300 Series — now came with a cab option.

Joe Bunson

"I'm a very practical person ...just ask my wife. That's why I like the M-F 300 Series tractors so much. But I just never figured a cab was all that necessary.

"I do now. That M-F Hiline cab really changed my mind.

"For starters, it's tight and quiet... it really fits the tractor to a tee.

"Visibility's good, too, even at night. I can aim the work lights right where I need them. That plus the dual-level heating and air conditioning lets me keep going long after dark without coming home totally beat.

"Of course as much as I like the Hiline cab, I wouldn't have bought it if it was on any other tractor.

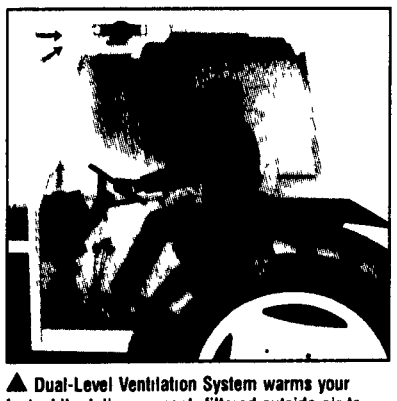
"My dealer says more farmers bought M-F tractors last year than any other make...one out of every five tractors sold in the Western World.

"Doesn't surprise me any. Those Perkins engines are just amazing. Lots of low-end torque, and they're still more economical and reliable than anything else I've seen.

"And my neighbors can't figure out how I get such a smooth job of plowing. I tell them it's just skill...but really it's the Ferguson hydraulics.

"Yes, sir. Getting that new M-F 390T with the Hiline cab is probably the most practical thing I've done. You ought to go get one for yourself."

▲ Wide-opening doors on both sides make it easy to get in and out of your Hiline cab.



▲ Dual-Level Ventilation System warms your feet while delivering cool, filtered outside air to your head.

Ayrshire Takes Supreme Title At Ephrata

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

EPHRATA (Lancaster Co.) — A 3-year-old Ayrshire cow was named supreme dairy animal at the relatively small Ephrata Fair dairy show last week.

About 30 animals — about half of what had been shown at the fair years ago, according to long time show enthusiasts — represented four breed competitions. The breeds were the Holstein, Jersey, Brown Swiss and Ayrshire.

Officials said that larger shows running concurrently with the Ephrata Fair have cut down on the number of entrants over the years.

However, despite the number of entries, dairy judge Alan Hostetter of Annville said he was impressed with the quality of the animals presented.

To select supreme dairy animal, the four grand champions of each breed were brought into the ring at the Ephrata Park.

The Ayrshire was selected, according to Hostetter, because of her overall correctness and bloom of udder. A Holstein breeder and dairyman in Lebanon County, he said that given a different time of year, perhaps one of the other grand champions could have given her more competition, but that with the full bloom and correct udder, he had to go with the Ayrshire.

Gerald Boyd smiles broadly with the judges declaration that his entry is reserve grand champion Brown Swiss of the Ephrata Fair.

The supreme champion dairy cow of the Ephrata Fair is a 4-year-old Ayrshire owned by Dennis Gerhart.

Thomas Zartman stands with his 3-year-old Brown Swiss that was named grand champion of the Ephrata Fair.

Soybean Farmers Firm On Marketing

ST. LOUIS, Mo.— American soybean farmers remain strongly committed to the soybean marketing loan contained in both the Senate and House versions of the 1990 Farm Bill, despite rumors that the program could be a casualty of current budget negotiations and recent comments by the administration.

"Soybean farmers across the country are firmly in support of the soybeam marketing loan," said American Soybean Association president Merle N. McCann. "Congress has already given the program a vote of confidence by including the soybean marketing loan in both versions of the Farm Bill."

The marketing loan would be an important first step toward solving the problems faced by U.S. soybean farmers over the last 10 years which have resulted in reduced U.S. farmer profits and expanding foreign soybean competition.

"The administration has criticized the program as too costly, yet the Congressional Budget Office shows little or no cost for the program," said McCann. "The marketing loan is good policy for farmers, for the U.S. balance of trade, and the general economy."

ASA has supported the marketing loan as a means of enhancing U.S. competitiveness, discouraging government stockpiles of soybeans, and providing U.S. farmers with an income safety net when prices are very low.

A BIG CUTTER FOR A LOT OF CHORES.

The 3368 series rotary cutter from Bush Hog can do a lot for you. With a 14-foot swath it clips material up to two-inches thick to as low as one-inch high. So it's excellent for general grounds maintenance, pasture and stalk cutting. For row crops, when fine shredding is required, an optional shredder attachment pulverizes heavy stubble to produce mulched crop residue.

The 3368 rotary cutter is available with a self-leveling pull hitch, a 3-point lift hitch, or an economical semi-mount hitch. You get a choice of laminated, pneumatic or airplane wheels. And there's more to choose—such as hydraulic or manual height control. Come in today and see all the 3368 has to offer...and all it can do for you.

individual titles.

Another Howard County team member, Jeanne Howell, 17, of Gary, was close behind -- tying for first in beef cattle judging and placing second in both reasons and overall standings. She was a close third in both sheep and swine judging.

Bobbye Chaney, 19, of Mount Airy (Frederick County) helped the Maryland 4-H cause by placing fourth in four contest categories. She was tenth in sheep judging.

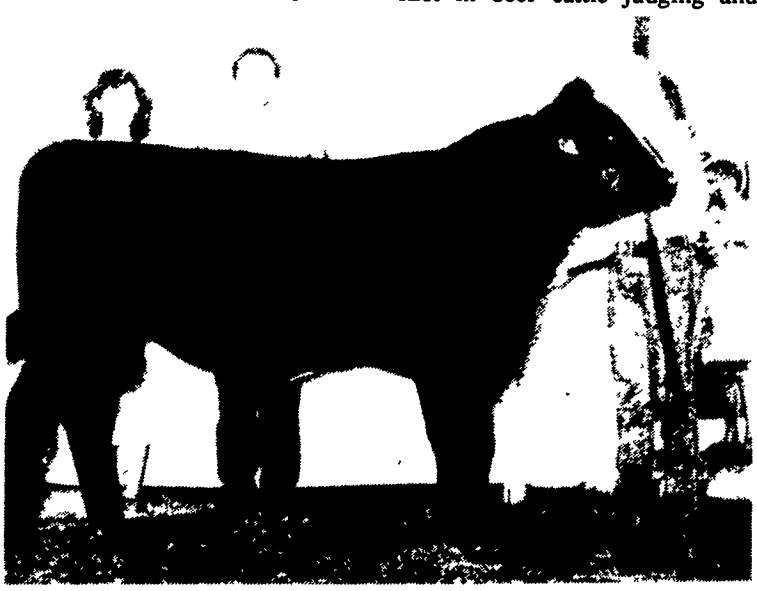
Joe Roberts, 17, of Thompsons Corner (St. Mary's County) was the alternate Maryland team member. A Charles County 4-Her, he scored well enough to tie for fourth in beef cattle judging and place fifth in the overall standings.

Pennsylvania's 4-H team finished second in the overall standings; Ohio placed third; and New Hampshire, fourth.

This year's victory was the third consecutive win for a Maryland 4-H team at the "Big E" livestock judging contest. Maryland teams ran up a string of five consecutive championships during the years 1976-80. They have seldom, if ever, finished lower than second in the overall standings.

William A. Curry of Columbia (Howard County) is coaching the Maryland 4-H livestock judging teams for the 21st consecutive year. Curry is a livestock specialist at College Park for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service.

He accompanied Maryland's 4-H livestock judging "B" team to Richmond, Va., to compete on Sept. 22 in a regional contest held each year in conjunction with the Mid-Atlantic Exposition and State Fair of Virginia.



Byrnley of The Plains, Va., owns this reserve grand champion bull at the 1990 Maryland State Fair. A September 1989 son of Premier Valedictorian, the bull is Byrnley Valentino 2249. He was first named the senior bull calf champion.

Hey! Folks

If your cows are slipping and falling, it ain't my fault because I have a machine called a Scabbler that will fix that concrete so your cows won't keep slipping all the time.

We've got service all around this section of the country, and I have a fellow just jumping to do your job mighty fast.

And that ain't all, our prices are right reasonable, and if you're a tightwad we'll let you do the job yourself if you've got over 500 square feet. It can save you right smart a money.

So call me on my nickel at 800-692-0123. If I'm not by the phone, some real live person will take your number, and I'll try to get back to you real soon. Usually somebody is awake in this outfit, so you just call any time day or night. But, please mind the Lord, and don't call on Sunday.

Just one more thing. We fellows make our living doing this kind of work, and we've got children to feed and bills. That's our side of it, but you've got such things too. A lot of people tell us that this Scabbling saves a whole lot more than it costs. So go ahead and do it. It'll put shoes on everybody's feet.

Be looking to hear from you folks right soon.

Youth Benefit From Gratz Livestock Sale

GRATZ (Dauphin Co.) — Fifty-five hogs and lambs raised by area youth were auctioned at the Gratz Fair's Third Annual 4-H and FFA Livestock Sale. Thursday night, Sept. 20.

Among those animals were the grand champion and reserve grand champion lambs and hogs. The youth spend about five months raising the animals and are the benefactors of the sales.

There were 54 individuals or businesses registered as buyers at the 1990 sale, an increase of eight from last year.

The effort of buyers to support the youngsters was demonstrated in an unusual circumstance this year. An 80-pound market lamb raised by Grant Campbell of Lykens unfortunately died earlier in the week at the fair. Since it was Grant's only scheduled entry in the sale, officials decided to "sell" Grant in an effort to give him some money for his efforts. The unusual "auction" produced a final bid of $45 from Russell Blyler Jr. of Big B Manufacturing, Klingerstown.

In the market swine sale, the 228-pound grand champion owned by Garth Sweigard of Halifax was bought by Hatfield Quality Meats, Hatfield, at $1.75 per pound. The 234-pound reserve grand champion owned by Douglas Reinert. Halifax, was bought by Keystone Farm Credit. Hegins Branch, at $1.30 per pound.

In the market lamb sale, the 110-pound grand champion owned by Chad Lebo of Halifax was bought by Campbell's Pet-N-Farm Store, Halifax, at $2.05 per pound. The 98-pound reserve grand champion owned by Garth Campbell of Lykens was bought by Keystone Farm Credit at 2.85 per pound.

George and Mike Deibert, auctioneers, from Klingerstown, volunteered their expertise again this year.

Walter Dunlap and Sons from the Lancaster Stockyards and Hatfield Quality Meats provided the base prices for the auction.

Lamb, Ewe Sale Results In

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — PA's 12th Performance-Tested Ram Lamb and Invitational Ewe Sale was conducted recently in the Ag Arena on the campus of The Pennsylvania State University. This reliable source for performance-tested sires drew a large crowd. Twenty-nine performance-tested rams sold for an average price of $250.

These 29 rams were the best that remained out of the 55 that had been consigned by the most progressive producers from Pennsylvania, in addition to breeders in Maryland, New Jersey, and New York. The rams completed an 84-day testing period at the Meat Animal Evaluation Center where they were weighed every 14 days, when their average daily gain and lifetime weight-per-day-of-ages were calculated.

At the conclusion of the testing period, the rams were scanned ultrasonically to determine backfat thickness and estimated loin-eye area. The animals are also screened for breeding soundness, structural correctness, breed character, wool quality, etc. Indices are also calculated for each ram. Criteria used to calculate the indices are average daily gain, lifetime weight-per-day-of-age, and adjusted fat thickness.

The indices are used to rank the rams within their breed groups. A sale committee consisting of breeders and university personnel then determines the best rams to make available through the sale.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert Herr of Narvon presented both the top-indicing and top-selling senior Dorsets with a pair of fall-born rams. The top indicing senior Dorset sold to Frank Burket of East Freedom for $325. The top-selling fall-born Dorset sold to Robert Houston and Dean Girton of Danville for $425. The four senior Dorset rams averaged $288.

The top-selling Hampshire ram, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Brubaker of Robesonia, sold to Alempat Acres of Calvin for $325. The top-indicing Hampshire was bred by Thomas Nickeson of Wellsboro and sold to Brenda Johnson of Middlebury Center. One fall-born Hampshire from Tim Kaltenbach of Wellsboro sold to Anthony and Donna Penich of Blairsville for $300.

Five junior Dorset rams averaged $195. The top-indicing ram produced by Pete and Brenda LeVan of Bellefonte sold to Clair Mummau of Mount Joy. The top-selling junior Dorset was consigned by Penn State and was sold to Jennifer Lawton of Far Hills, New Jersey for $400.

Thirteen junior Suffolk rams averaged $275. The top-indicing Suffolk, consigned by Lyn-Lee Farms of State College, sold to Carl Dean of Darlington for $375. The second highest indicing Suffolk was the high-selling Suffolk and he also returned the top price of the day over all breeds. This popular ram was produced by Penn State and sold to George Hayes of Friendsville for $450.

One fall-born Suffolk, consigned by Lynn Laudenslager of Dalmatia, sold to Olyn Chaffee of Wyalusing for $350. The lone Shropshire bred by Christine Calvert of Mercer received the winning bid of $200 from John Spaulding of Prosperity. In the invitational ewe division, 34 purebred ewes averaged $136 and 10 commercial ewes averaged $85.

The auctioneer for the sale was David Harpster of Boalsburg. The sale was managed by Glenn Eberly, director of the Meat Animal Evaluation Center. For information about upcoming sales or any of PA's Performance Testing programs, call Glenn Eberly at (814) 238-2527.

Reduce Intake, Maintain Steer Performance

Because increasing feed intake generally decreases nutrient retention time and nutrient digestibility, recent research has indicated that feed intake can be restricted without a significant decline in average daily gain or feed efficiency.

Also, feeding ionophores has been shown to increase feed efficiency by an average of about 10 percent. Now, University of Kentucky researchers say their work indicates combining the two practices can provide favorable results.

The researchers compared performance when steers were fed free choice and when they were restricted to 95 percent and 90 percent of feed choice. The test included rations with and without the ionophore monensin. All steers were implanted with ralgro at the onset of the test.

In steers fed monensin, average daily gain was highest in the free-choice group, while feed conversion was slightly higher in the 95 percent intake group. In steers not receiving monensin, the 95 percent intake group had slightly higher daily gain and better feed conversion than the free-choice group. Steers receiving 90 percent of the free-choice intake gained the least in both monensin and non-monensin groups.

Those results indicate that steers restricted to 95 percent of free-choice intake perform as well as the free-choice steers. Since monensin can be expected to decrease feed intake and increase feed efficiency while gains remain constant, the effects of feed intake restriction could be expected to be least in steers receiving monensin.

However, even though a five percent feed restriction did not result in a significant increase in feed efficiency in monensin-fed cattle, neither did a five percent feed restriction cause a decrease. Both feedlot and carcass performance were similar for free-choice and 95 percent restricted steers. Seventy percent and 69 percent of steers graded choice in the two groups, respectively.

While the results indicate producers could reduce feed inputs by five percent without reducing performance, further research is needed before the practice is recommended. Feed restriction first needs to be related to facilities, a range of rations, cattle type, cattle weight and length of feeding period.

U.S. Pork Profitability Threatened

Recent developments in Japan could seriously threaten the present positive pork price situation here in the U.S. Japan's testing for sulfamethazine in U.S. pork has revealed another violation, bringing the number of U.S. packing plants now under 100 percent testing to five.

A sixth violation will lead to all U.S. pork being screened in Japan rather than random sampling as at present. This would cause a backup of product, stopping most fresh pork sales to Japan. The loss of our major export market could lower U.S. hog values by an average of $2.50 per head. In additionn, adverse publicity in the U.S. could cause another $1.50 to $4.50 drop per head.

This serious threat to U.S. trade will likely result in more testing by the U.S. government and more farm quaranties because of illegal sulfamethazine residues. It points up the need for all producers to strictly follow withdrawal instructions.

This situation means the National Pork Producers Council's Pork Quality Assurance Program will become even more important to reassure our customers that we have a safe product, and to help you avoid the mistakes that could lead to a quarantine on your farm.

Last year, nearly 35 percent of

Breeding Ewe Lambs

What about breeding ewe lambs? It's recommended that you wait to breed ewe lambs until they are at least nine months old. It's important to grow these lambs out well. Select ewe lambs born in January and February. Once they are weaned at eight weeks of age, grow them out on a fattening ration until they've reached 105 to 110 pounds.

Then keep them on a 10 to 20 percent grain ration until November, when they will be old enough to breed. Its important to realize that the ewe lamb needs extra feed to grow as well as to produce lambs. Keep the bred ewe lambs separate from the older ewes.

Cumberland Co. Farmland Protection

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Agricultural Land Preservation Board has approved a plan to save prime farmland in Cumberland County and authorized the purchase of easement rights on six farms in Berks, Bucks, and Chester counties.

State Agricultural Secretary Boyd E. Wolff said the addition of Cumberland raises to 11 the number of counties with approved plans under the state's $100 million program.

The board's approval of easement purchases for six farms in eastern Pennsylvania brings to 17 the number of farms in the state protected by the program.

The farms are:

• Berks County — Two dairy farms in Richmond Township, one owned by Kermit and Minnie Schlegel and the other by Kermit and Minnie Schlegel and Kenneth and Sharon Schlegel.

• Bucks County — Dairy farm in Buckingham Township owned by Charles and Mary Ann Frederick and Wilmer and Margaret Frederick. Dairy farm in Buckingham Township operated by Leonard and Elizabeth Crooke.

• Chester County — Dairy farm in London Grove Township owned by William and Sara Moore. Farm producing beef and hay in East Fallowfield Township owned by James and Joanne Evans.

Ag Leaders Gather

ITHACA, N.Y. — More than 30 alumni of the Empire State Food and Agricultural Leadership Institute recently gathered together for their annual summer workshop.

Those in attendance during the two-day session in Rochester, New York were graduates of Class I (1987) and Class II (1989).

The focus of the workshop was to reunite the network of young farm and agribusiness professionals who participated in the leadership institute. The workshop also featured an expert on resolution conflict and negotiation and a presentation on the American farm Bureau Federation's recent survey of the public's perception on the safety of our food supply.

The institute is a two-year leadership development program sponsored by the New York State College of Agriculture and Life Sciences at Cornell University, the New York State Agricultural Society, and the food industry. thirty individuals, representing all facets of New York's $24 billion food and agricultural industry, take part in each two-year program.

Through workshops and study tours, the institute broadens the individual's knowledge of the state's food and agricultural system, improves their communication and leadership skills, and develops the ability to strengthen the industry by shaping public policy through their businesses and affiliated organizations.

The program recently completed the first year of class III, which is targeted for graduation in June 1991. This fall the institute will again launch its search for young men and women leaders involved in the food and agricultural industry to apply for acceptance into class IV. A series of regional information meetings will be held.

For more information on the Institute, contact Brian Earle, (607) 255-7907.

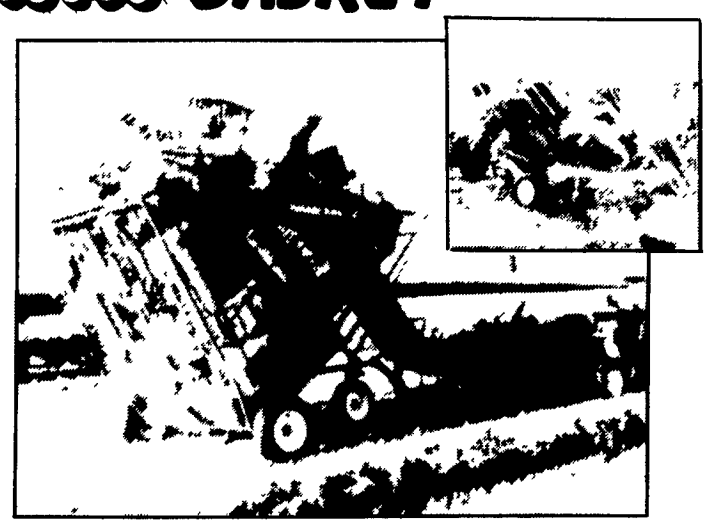
ONE OF A KIND IN ITS FIELD

HAYBASKET

THE PRACTICAL WAY TO HANDLE SQUARE BALES FROM THE FIELD TO THE BARN.



ADVANTAGES OF "HAYBASKET"
- Reduces baling time by up to one-half since you can unload at the barn with the flip of a lever.
- Reduce the number of broken bales caused by a bale thrower.
- Eliminate maintenance cost of a kick/thrower.
- If you presently are not using a kicker or need a new baler, eliminate the entire cost of a kicker
- Eliminate the aggravation and back breaking labor of unloading tangled, wedged bales from a slippery floor three feet off the ground
- Replace three hay wagons with two haybaskets since unloading time is so fast.
- Eliminate the "Swaying" problem with 4 wheel wagons on the road Increase transport speed
- The Haybasket acts like a "Two-Wheel" Trailer Since the front wheel casters, it is easy to maneuver.
- The Haybasket is priced close enough to a new kicker wagon that it is very affordable

QUESTIONS MOST FREQUENTLY ASKED.
- HOW MANY BALES DOES IT HOLD?

The Haybasket will hold from 95-100 full size bales
- WHAT ABOUT CORNERS?

Owners report that they can follow average raked corners with no problem One owner said he can make a 90 degree turn.
- WHAT ABOUT HILLS?

With a 10' Wheelbase and a very low center of gravity the haybasket is much more stable on hillsides than a wagon with a 72" treadwidth and high center of gravity.

$2250.00 FOB per wagon

Dairy Tips By Dr. John Clark, P.A.S.

PURINA MILLS, INC.

Purina Mills Dairy Consultant

FIBER — AN IMPORTANT NUTRIENT

To make the best use of all nutrients, the rumen of the high producing dairy cow must be provided enough total fiber from the diet to assure good rumen function and cud chewing. If fiber is from "wet" roughages (silage or haylage), higher amounts of fiber must be fed. If all dry roughages are fed, less total fiber is needed.

Poorer quality roughages, such as drought silage, provide higher than normal fiber and lower than normal digestible nutrients. These poor quality roughages will not support high milk yields without a concurrent loss of body condition. Therefore, proper supplementation is needed to help maintain production and body condition, especially during the late stage of lactation or production and reproduction will be poor the next lactation.

THE TOTAL PRODUCT FOR FRESH COWS!!! - PURINA FRESHENER PAK!!!

That's right, Purina nutritionists have brought every ingredient that will benefit fresh cows and put them together in one easy-to-feed product. Dairy Freshener Pak can help prevent retained placenta, twisted stomach, uterine infections, ketosis, fresh cow mastitis and help cows peak higher by keeping them on feed. Simply top dress or mix in high-group TMR at 4 ounces per head per day. No other package delivers all these benefits:

Niacin - Average 2.38 lbs. more milk. It slows fat metabolism and fights ketosis.

Yeast - Live Sacchromyces Cerevisae - more than 4 lbs. extra milk by keeping cows on feed.

Vitamin E - Involved in muscle function, works against twisted stomach and retained placenta.

Oxytetracycline - Two pounds milk increase, prevents infections.

Vitamin A & D - Extra vitamins for low feed intake at freshening.

Selenium - Works with Vitamin E

Vitamin B_{12} - Stimulates appetite.

Order Freshener Pak today to help your fresh cows get off to an excellent start.
